Supt. Wardrop Says Pennsylvania May Postpone New Depot.

WILL TALK OVER THE CITY OFFER

Business on Pennsylvania Lines is Not Good at This Time.

Superintendent W. M. Wardrop, of the Pennsylvania lines, will go to Pittsburg tomorrow for a conference with the officials of his company on the proposition submitted yesterday by the board of public works on behalf of the city and he said today he feared that the directors might decide to postpone the erection of the new passenger station.

He has little confidence that the terms will be agreed to. Business on the lines is not good now and every effort has been directed for some months to cutting down the operating expenses. Under the interstate commerce law the greater part of the work to be done in Fort Wayne will be charged to the operating account and he does not believe the inducements held out are sufficient to justify the expenditure.

Things Do Not Stand.

"I am less confident of a settlement since the meeting yesterday afternoon for the reason that things do not stay fixed. The city makes an agreement one day and the next it is broken and confusion follows.

"I do not believe the company's officers will consider the proposition to cancel the debt of $2,000 because it was contracted openly and legally between the Pennsylvania company and the city and I will not recommend breaking the compact.

"All of the property the company purchased recently for its depot and terminal facilities originally belonged to it and was sold at a low figure and bought back at a big advance and I think the Pennsylvania has a legal right to the streets inasmuch as it owns all of the abutting property.

"In spite of the fact that the company will be left with a triangular piece of property it had hoped to reserve, possibly for an office building, it has agreed to a change in the opening of Webster street to avoid an abrupt break. This depot is the finest ever proposed for a city the size of Fort Wayne and, as I have said before, there is much sentiment in this because officials recognize that the name of the city figures in that of the road and many of them live here."

Board Members Confident.

Members of the board of public works are confident that the Pennsylvania company will accept the proposition submitted yesterday afternoon. They think they have made no unreasonable demands and are prepared to stand by the proposition which they framed up as an ultimatum.

Mr. Wardrop stated yesterday that he would submit the matter to the officers at Pittsburg. If consent is obtained to cancel the debt of $2,000 contracted under the Hosey administration this will have to go before the executive committee of the Fort Wayne line and this means that some little time will be consumed in obtaining an answer.

Another objection raised is that a thirty-foot span at Webster street will break in on one of the company's standards and some trouble is expected on this score as the departments all have fixed standards and are loathe to depart from them in any particular.

Upon Mr. Wardrop's return from Pittsburg another conference will be held and he will submit the answer of the company to the demands made by the board of public works. Little time was consumed in the meeting yesterday. The city's proposition was read and was taken over by the company's representatives, there was very little discussion and an adjournment was taken.

NO RELIEF FROM TAX BURDENS.

Japanese Financial Policy Will Remain the Same for Another Year.

Tokio, April 7.—M. Katsura, the premier and minister of finance addressing an audience of bankers at Kyoto today said there would be no change in the government's financial policy during the coming year. Unusual expeditures must be faced in Korea, and also measures for the prevention of floods and for the development of the railways and the navy must be undertaken. However, the necessary funds would be secured, he said, without resort to additional taxation or foreign loans.

TAKING OFF PASSENGERS

Gigantic Liner Irene Still Has Her Nose Fast in Long Island Mud

SEA IS ROLLING; WORK DIFFICULT

Disembarkation of Above 2,000 Souls Has Some Tinge of Peril.

Lone Hill Life-Saving Station, April 7.—Trans-shipment of passengers from the Prinzess Irene was begun at 1 o'clock this afternoon when a surf boat bearing fifteen women left the Irene's lee side and headed away for the relief ship Prinz Frederick Wilhelm. The transference must be done before nightfall. This gives but five or six hours of working time in which to trans-ship 2,010 persons—235 cabin passengers, 1,485 steerage and 380 of the crew.

The giant North German Lloyd liner was still lying hopeless in the gripping sand keys off here this afternoon with her 1,720 passengers still aboard awaiting transfer to the Prinz Frederick Wilhelm, which has been sent to her assistance from New York. The steamer Irene rolls slightly in the swelling sea and is deeper in the sand than when she struck the shoal in the fog yesterday morning.

Cannot Work at Night.

No passengers can be risked in small boats at night, the admiralty law forbidding. The magnitude of the task of completing the rescue by daylight appears when it is remembered it took eight hours to transfer the passengers of the sinking steamer Republic. The sea is rough, but no apprehension is felt for the safety of the passengers while they are being transferred.

The sea was found to be running too high for the lifeboats with the passengers in transit to make the trip to the Prinz Wilhelm safely so they ran alongside the tug Timmins on the lee side of the Irene and put their passengers on board the tug. The Timmins made the run of about a mile separating the Irene from the Prinz Frederick Wilhelm in ten minutes at 2:20, made fast to the Wilhelm and prepared to unload her passengers.

Passengers lined the steamship's rails and gave a modest cheer as the officers and deck men assisted the first boat load of women to their places in the surf boat. As the life boat swung away a wave slapped the side of the boat, sending a shower of spray over the shipwrecked passengers, but beyond that no damage was done.

Five surf boats were added to the little fleet of rescuing vessels.

A Ticklish Operation.

The trans-shipping of the women and children to the small boats was not without its difficulties. There was a gap of eight feet between the accommodation ladder and the dancing surf boat and a short ladder was lashed to the accommodation ladder to bridge it.

Another surf boat drew alongside the Irene and took off other passengers who also were taken to the Timmins. Another tug, the Wilcox, stood by waiting to be loaded with passengers as fast as they were taken off by surf boats.

The first load reached the Prinz Frederick Wilhelm safely on the Timmis.

The revenue cutter Seneca lay anchored midway between the Prinzess Irene and the Frederick Wilhelm and the revenue cutter Mohawk has a position between the Seneca and the Irene.

Breeches Buoy From the Shore.

A breeches buoy connects the steamship with the shore, while three life saving crews stand by the life saving boats on shore. Near the Irene, swashing about in the seaway, are the revenue cutters Seneca and Mohawk, with little fleet of tugs awaiting to aid in the trans-shipping of the passengers. There was a smart northwester blowing this morning, which stirred up a lumpy sea and life saving crews said that unless the wind and water moderated it would be dangerous to transfer the passengers. There is absolutely no fear for the safety of the passengers, who, in fact, show no apprehension over their enforced stay on the shoals. Some of the ocean voyagers played bridge whist in the cabin while others attended the band concert. Neither do the steerage passengers show any fear. Captain George E. Goddard, of the Lone Hill life saving station, spent all last night aboard the Irene and came ashore this morning in the station surf boat.

Conditions Aboard the Irene.

"I had a long talk with Captain Peterssen, of the Irene," said Captain Goddard soon after he came ashore, "and he was at a loss to explain how he ever got aground. Captain Peterssen told me that he had been sounding regularly and that the last sounding showed eighteen fathoms. The next he knew the Irene was on the sand spit.

"There was not and is not now the slightest sign of panic or excitement among the passengers. They have eaten their meals regularly and have been entertained by band concerts. Even in the ladies' cabin there were no signs of fear and I observed several persons sitting about reading and playing whist. The steerage passengers were restless, but not panicky."

Preparations to take off the Irene's passengers went forward expeditiously all during the morning.

Emergency Measures Taken.

FIFTY MEN IN BURNING MINE

Flames Rage in Shaft 750 Feet Below Surface of the Earth.

LITTLE HOPE FOR THOSE IMPRISONED

Pennsylvania Scene of Accident That Promises a Great Catastrophe.

Scranton, Pa., April 7.—Forty to fifty men employed in the Pancoast mine of the Scranton Coal company at Troop are entombed in the inner workings with all chances of escape, it is believed, cut off. Fire is raging along an entire vein owing to an engine house having been set ablaze. The mine is equipped with two openings; but the location of the burning engine room is such as to have cut off escape by these routes.

At 3:30 p. m. the fire in the mine was still burning.

Fire Far Below Surface.

The fire is in the workings 750 feet below the surface. Officials, scores of workmen, volunteer firemen and the Troop fire department are working to get to the men supposed to be in one part of the mine.

The fire is reported to have started in an engine room at the head of the slope from an unknown cause. Three hundred men were in the mines when the alarm was given. On account of the great excitement it is impossible to learn how many managed to get out. Unless the men thought to be trapped are soon reached it is feared they will all die, if they have not already been smothered by smoke. At 1:30 o'clock this afternoon it was learned that it was impossible to reach the men for some time owing to the smoke.

Crowds Flock to Mouth of Shaft.

The news of the fire spread rapidly and hundreds flocked to the mouth of the shaft. Women were frantic and tore their hair and clothing in their despair and many of them had to be taken from the scene. Under the mining laws of Pennsylvania a second opening in the mines is required and it was believed the mine workers would all be able to get out of one of the two exits. An investigation showed, however, that the fire is so located to cut off escape from both openings. When the seriousness of the situation dawned upon the mine officials the rescue station at Wilkesbarre was notified and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western experiment car was sent with crew and equipment to fight the fire.

Mine Is in the Town.

Troop is about three miles west of this city and the mine is in the town. It is said a majority of the men in the mine are foreign laborers. Two men who escaped said there were fifty men shut in by the fire and would likely be suffocated. At 3 o'clock this afternoon it was fully realized by employes and admitted by some of the officials at the colliery that the situation is very grave and that an almost hopeless task confronts the rescuers in attempting to reach the entombed men.

While nothing has been given out officially reliable information is to the effect that between forty and fifty men are in the burning mine.

No Word From Mine

Up to 3 o'clock no word had come from the mine except that the fire was still raging and that the possibility of the imprisoned miners being alive was growing fainter.

There were 500 men in the min-

UNWRITTEN LAW SAVES A WOMAN

Mrs. Brooks Acquitted at Fort Worth of Murder of Mrs. Binford.

WAS AFTER HUSBAND

Fort Worth, Tex., April 7.—Mrs. T. M. Brooks, who has been on trial here for the past week charged with the murder of Mrs. Mary Binford on Jan. 16, was today declared not guilty by the jury that has been hearing the case.

Mrs. Brooks is the wife of a well-known attorney and during the rush hours of shopping went to a large department store, where Mrs. Binford was employed, and shot her to death. Mrs. Brooks claimed that Mrs. Binford had tried to alienate her husband's affections. The verdict was rendered in her favor on the ground of insanity. During the trial Mrs. Brooks testified that for two years she had set aside two hours each day praying that Mrs. Binford would let her husband alone.

FAINTS FROM HIS EMOTION

Camorrist Priest Again Provides Sensation at Viterbo.

SAYS HE FASTED FOUR WHOLE DAYS

Court Orders Raw Eggs and an Adjournment for the Witness.

Viterbo, Italy, April 7.—The trial of the Camorrists was interrupted again today when Cirro Vitozzi, the accused priest weakened by a self imposed fast, fainted. He was under interrogation and had worked himself into a state of mental and physical exhaustion until he tumbled over against the steel bars of the prisoners' cage. Lawyers and Carabineers rushed to his assistance and in the confusion President Bianchi declared the sitting suspended. At the same time the court ordered Vitozzi to break his fast with the yolks of half a dozen eggs.

The climax came opportunely for Vitozzi, following his declaration that he had abstained from food for forty-eight hours. He had been telling a story of his alleged persecution in prison and the recital was not without dramatic effect.

Lock of Mother's Hair Stolen.

"With me in my cell said the priest I had a lock of hair from the head of that holy soul, my mother. This was taken from me upon the order of a magistrate who insisted that the hair was that of some woman companion of mine. What nonsense! Why, it was even gray. Can any one imagine a greater profanity?"

Here the accused man invoked the soul of his mother in support of his statement and the recollection of what he described as the insults to her memory overwhelming him, he was seized with a fit of weeping. Between his sobs he cried out:

"I have been fasting for 48 hours, supported during my whole interrogation by divine power."

With these words he collapsed.

Rapi Cried Too Much.

Giovanni Rapi was not present when the trial was resumed this morning. His physician certified that he was suffering from a sore throat as a result of having "cried too much during his interrogation." The proceedings opened with the recall of Vitozzi. The prisoner described attempts, which he said, had been made to make him appear guilty of complicity in the murder of Gennaro Cuoccolo and his wife. While he was in prison, he said, he was confronted with a man who offered him $20 to denounce certain persons as guilty of the Cuoccolo assassins adding that if it was necessary he would send the priest to America as Erricone had been sent. Vitozzo said he did not know the man who approached him and whose name as given him was fictitious. The prisoner told of the alleged abuse of him by the judges during his preliminary examinations and while he was in prison. One judge had insulted him; calling him "A Camorrist pig." This, said Vitozzi, "was cowardly, savage and inhuman, while the judge ought to represent honesty."

Vitozzi Curses Informer.

Growing more excited as he continued, Vitozzi shouted:

"Those judges trampled not only upon the human, but upon divine law. I reminded them that they must die.

GUGGENHEIMS ARE FULLY DIVORCED

New York Court Recognizes Separation of Couple Who Wedded Again

EACH HAS NEW MATE

Albany, N. Y., April 7.—The divorce granted Grace B. Guggenheim from William Guggenheim in Chicago in March, 1901, was upheld today by the court of appeals. The Guggenheims were married in Hoboken, N. J., November 30, 1900, and the following January Guggenheim is alleged to have deserted his wife who went to Chicago in February and instituted an action for divorce.

The divorce was granted on March 20, 1901, based upon the statutory offense alleged to have been committed in Chicago and Mrs. Guggenheim was paid $150,000 in satisfaction for her claims for allmony. She returned to New York and on December 2 of the same year married Jules Roger Wahl. Three years later Guggenheim married Aimee Steinberger in Chicago.

At the time of the Illinois divorce Mrs. Guggenheim testified that she was a resident of Chicago. In 1908 she brought action against Guggenheim for a divorce under the laws of New York, state claiming that as neither party was a resident of Chicago the Illinois divorce was illegal and that the defendant should maintain her.

The lower courts held the Chicago decree to be valid and their decision was upheld by the court of appeals.

WAINWRIGHT HAS ALSO COME BACK

St. Louis Millionaire Put Under Arrest on Indictments Ten Years Old.

FOLK RUN HIM AWAY

St. Louis, April 7.—Ellis Wainwright, a millionaire brewer, who was in Europe when he was indicted in 1901 on a charge of bribery in connection with a street railway franchise, surrendered today to the sheriff. He was released on $20,000 bond.

Wainwright was abroad when former Circuit Attorney J. W. Folk, who later became governor, began probing the bribery scandal in St. Louis. He was one of the directors of the St. Louis and Suburban Railway company, whose names, it is alleged, were signed to notes for $135,000 to secure the passage of a franchise bill.

Wainwright continued to reside in Paris. Efforts were made by Folk to extradite him, but they were unsuccessful and Wainwright's friends have tried to get the indictment nolle prossed.

The transcript of the testimony has been kept in a safety deposit vault.

Former Governor Folk, who as circuit attorney, obtained the indictment, was retained a year ago as special prosecutor in case Wainwright should return.

MARTIN MADE THE LEADER

Virginian Chosen Senate Chief of Democrats Over Shively.

MARGIN OF FIVE VOTES FOR HIM

Result Was Forecasted by Second Conference of the Day.

Washington, April 7.—By a vote of 21 to 16 for Senator Shively, the democratic senatorial caucus today nominated Senator Martin, of Virginia, as leader of the minority in the senate.

The opposition to Senator Martin, whose election had been conceded prior to a visit to Washington of William J. Bryan, came from what is known as the progressive faction and is led by Senator Stone, of Missouri.

Today about a dozen admirers of Mr. Bryan met in the office of Senator Owen. They agreed, it is said, to place someone in nomination against Senator Martin, probably Senator Stone or Senator Culberson of Texas, the latter having resigned the leadership a little more than a year ago on account of ill-health.

No Personal Feeling.

Practically all of the democrats who attended the meeting have declared they had no personal objection to Mr. Martin and that they regarded him as their friend, but they wanted for caucus chairman a younger man, whose progressiveness has been established.

Senator Martin's friends urged that he is not a reactionary and that the fight against him is unfair.

At 1:15 p. m. today a second conference of democratic progressive senators was adjourned and it was announced that the election this afternoon of Senator Martin as minority leader was conceded.

Senator Newlands, it was said at that time, will be nominated in the caucus against Mr. Martin. Neither Senators Culberson nor Stone would consent to the presentation of their names as candidates.

Not Opposed to Martin.

W. J. Bryan explained at the white house today that he was not opposed to the selection of Senator S. Martin, of Virginia, as minority leader of the senate, but said that he personally would not have voted for Senator Martin if he were a member of the senate.

Mr. Bryan spent almost an hour with President Taft and met a number of the members of the cabinet. He refused to say what subject he had discussed with the president.

THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

Fort Wayne Ranks Third in State for Efficiency.

Miss Colerick, the librarian, states that Fort Wayne now ranks as third in the state in regard to its public library, this standing having been given it by the state library board for its book circulation, number of volumes on its shelves and general efficiency. Its reference books department is one of the best. The standing of the different public libraries of the state is as follows: Indianapolis, first; Terre Haute, second; Fort Wayne, third; Richmond, fourth; Muncie, fifth, and Evansville, sixth. Fort Wayne only attained the third rank during the last year. Evansville is the second city in population in the state and yet is sixth in its public library. Terre Haute is the fourth in population in the state and Fort Wayne third. The public library at Terre Haute, however, is much older than that at Fort Wayne.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Point life saving station, went out to the Irene in a surf boat carrying breeches buoy line, which was attached to the bow of the Irene. This was done as an emergency measure in case a storm develops. The Irene looked like an immense spider in a web of tow lines which radiated from her stem and stern to the bobbing fleet of revenue cutters and tugs. Near noon as the tide began to flood strongly the Irene's big propellers began churning the sea while the tugs strained laboriously to free the steamship from the shoals.

An accommodation ladder was let down on the lee side of the Irene, down which the passengers were taken to the boats for transfer to the Prinz Frederick.

The Prinz Frederick Wilhelm's officers in a wireless inquired the Irene if she would send tthe passengers off in her own boats.

NOT THE BOAT HUNTED FOR.

Boston, Mass., April 7.—The schooner at anchor in the lower harbor which a couple of inbound fishermen reported to be the overdue schooner J. Manchester Haynes, 38 days out from Brunswick, Ga., proved today to be another vessel while an all night search of the bay for the missing Haynes which was spoken off the Georges last Saturday, was without result. Several trawlers sighted and spoke the Haynes near the Georges last Friday and learned that she had had an unusually hard passage and was out of oil and provisions. Her deck load of hard pine had been swept overboard. Supplies were obtained from one of the fisherman and the Haynes proceeded on a long beat to windward for this port. Since then there have been a couple of stiff southerly and westerly gales, which may have blown the Haynes still farther off the shore.

TENDERLOIN WAS SHAKEN.

Section of New York Excited by Mysterious Explosion.

New York, April 7.—"What's that?" exclaimed the tenderloin with one voice this morning and rushed to the streets. Someone had exploded a heavy bomb in front of the basement door at No. 131 West 45th street, in the very center of the all night district set thick with chop houses, lobster palaces and hotels. It was 5 o'clock and the tenderloin was either getting its first beauty sleep or making ready for it.

The terrific report jarred the whole neighborhood for fifteen blocks around, and the force of the explosion blew in the basement doors of the chop houses and shattered all the windows. The upper stories were tenantless and the ground floors, occupied by a furrier, was vacant at the time, so nobody was hurt, but a bomb so far from the east side quickly drew a crowd of thousands. In the hotel Lyseum, a biscuit's toss away, the telephone operator was blown from his stool and stunned by the fall. Guests who tried to learn through the house exchange what all the excitement was about, got no answer and came piling down stairs in a panic.

At the hoted Astor, across Broadway, at the Knickerbocker, three blocks down town, and the Cadillac the clerks at the desks were kept busy answering inquiries. From the little Hotel Belmont, in West 45th street, and the St. James and other apartment houses, scantily dressed, the crowds poured onto the pavements, surveyed the damage done and went to bed again.

The police have a theory that the case is one of spite work against the owner of the house and not an ordinary "black hand" bomb throwing.

Boston, Mass., April 7.—On charges of using the United States mail to defraud the public of large sums of money, Warren B. Wheeler and Stillman Shaw, of the firm of Wheeler & Shaw, Inc., formerly fiscal agents for the North American Rubber company of this city and Hyde Park, were arrested today.

A formal plea of not guilty was entered when Wheeler and Shaw were given a hearing before Commissioner Hays and both were ordered held in $3,000 each for hearing. The defendants furnished bail and were released.

YOUNG PREACHERS ARE EXAMINED

One of the Pleasant Labors of the Conference at Kokomo.

THE M. E. GATHERING

Kokomo, Ind., April 7.—With the advice "don't spend too much time at the grocery stores shaking hands with everybody and running errands for the women's aid society," a class of twelve young ministers was taken into full membership at today's session of the North Indiana conference of the Methodist Episcopal church by Bishop Edwin H. Hughes.

The class was composed of Ervin B. Brown, Leroy C. Baker, Alonzo C. Burns, Leroy Myers, Edward Emory De Witt, Clyde Greenlee Youman, Wm. Henry Harrison, Hubert Webster, Lester J. Black; Warren W. Wyant, Otto D. Morris and Earl S. Riley.

A committee on church extension was appointed today and consists of the district superintendent and the following laymen:

J. W. Creaghton, of Elkhart; John S. Baker, of Wabash; E. O. Ellingham, of Logansport; M. H. Hone, of Richmond; D. O. Swillen, of Fort Wayne, and P. M. Beard, of Muncie.

Former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks is on the program for late this afternoon and a large attendance is on hand to hear him. The place of holdig the next conference will be decided Monday.

Old Officers Re-Elected.

After a lively discussion yesterday participated in by Rev. Ezra F. Hasty, of Warsaw, Rev. L. J. Naftzger, of Greenfield, and Rev. H. N. Herrick, of Kokomo, the officers of the Preachers' Aid society chosen last year were re-elected. A nominating committee composed of M. Pell, W. W. Martin and H. L. Overdeer was appointed and Rev. Mr. Hasty expressed fear that a slate had been arranged or might be suggested. This implication brought L. J. Naftzger, president of the board, to an animated denial and general explanation of the workings of the nominating committee, which proceedings proved one of the enlivening incidents of the session.

In the end Revs. Mr. Herrick and Mr. Hasty expressed their full confidence in the officers of the society who, re-elected, left the nominating committee nothing to do. The officers are:

saying 'beware, beware, the anathema.'"

Urging the priest to calm himself, President Bianchi inquired whether he knew Gennaro Abbatemaggio, the informer.

"No," replied Vitozzi, who added: "All the statements of Abbatemaggio are false. I will ask him to swear on the ashes of his father and on the ashes of his dead son, hoping that he will be touched."

At this thrust Abbatemaggio, who had listened calmly from his solitary cage, broke his usual impassibility of manner and replied:

"I will swear on anything you please."

Enraged, Vitozzi turned upon his accuser and cried: "I will curse you down to the seventh generation."

"I am sorry for you," said the informer.

At this the priest changed his tactics and said: "No I will not curse you. I remember that I am a priest and must pardon even those who injure me. I wish to take you to my bosom."

In the same emotional strain Vitozzi continued with the reference to his mother's gray hairs until he was overcome and the proceedings halted.

PRISONERS AT JUAREZ.

Federals Bring in Wounded and Captives of Casas Grandes.

El Paso, Texas, April 7.—Eighty-three wounded and a number of prisoners taken by the federals at Casas Grandes were brought into Juarez today. The wounded lay prone in box cars, but were well cared for by the escort which numbered about 200. With the latter were two field pieces and two rapid fire guns.

General Eugia Lis, recently ordered to proceed with his force from Casas Grandes to Chihuahua is reported to have left for the latter place.

Twenty-five "soldadas" or woman camp followers who had become separated from their husbands in the federal ranks arrived at Juarez today. They walked from Chihuahua, 150 miles, pushing a hand car that bore their meager belongings. Where bridges were out they forded the streams carrying the hand car.

May Presage Attack on Juarez.

United States customs guards report a force of 400 insurrectos at San Ignacio opposite Fort Hancock, east of El Paso. The appearance of this force has revived fears of an attack on Juarez.

Dispatches from Culiacan, the capital of Sinaloa, declare two engagements have taken place near Mojolo and that a number of wounded federals have been brought to Culiacan in ox carts.

Couriers from Agua Jito, near Mojolo, brought in reports of an engagement in which it was said forty insurrectos were killed by the federal artillery.

Only 150 troops are left to guard Culiacan and Gov. Rudio has been directed to maintain a defensive attitude.

BATHTUB SUIT POSTPONED.

Detroit, Mich., April 7.—The trial of the government's criminal case against the so-called "bathtub trust" has been postponed from the May to the June term of the federal court here, because of certain newspaper articles to which Judge Dennison took exception.

The orange is the most luscious and healthful fruit. California excels in quality of oranges. The best of the California oranges are now packed in individual wrappers labeled "Sunkist."

Five thousand orange farmers in California do their own packing, shipping and selling. They grade and select their crop into "firsts," "seconds," etc. The firsts are fancy, tree-ripened, hand-picked; seedless, fibreless, thin-skinned oranges—every individual orange a perfect specimen of the finest variety of oranges. They are not only more healthful and more palatable than other oranges, but they are actually cheaper, for they are nearly all meat and nourishment. Your dealer sells "Sunkist" Oranges. Ask for them. You will know them by the tissue paper wrapper in which each "Sunkist" Orange is packed. On the wrapper note the label, "Sunkist." Keep all the wrappers. They are worth money to you

Best California Lemons Come in "Sunkist" Wrappers

You can judge lemons by the "clothes" they wear. If they wear "Sunkist" wrappers they are juicy and good, for they are not thick-skinned or pithy. They are just as fine as "Sunkist" Oranges, and their wrappers are equally valuable.

LORIMER AT HOME.

Illinois Senator Still Refuses to Discuss His Case.

Chicago, Ill., April 7.—Senator William Lorimer arrived here early today from Johnstown, Pa., where he had investigated a mining device in company with a Chicago mining engineer yesterday. The senator went direct to the LaSalle bank, where he spent the early part of the day in looking after the bank business. He declined to be interviewed in connection with the proceedings of the Helm committee at Springfield, or with the story told before the committee by Clarence S. Funk, of the International Harvester company, that his company had turned down an opportunity to contribute to an alleged $100,000 fund to elect the senator.

WABASH LAD MEETS A HORRIBLE DEATH

With Both Legs Cut Off Seven-Year-Old Boy Lingers Four Hours —Tried to Ride Car.

Wabash, Ind., April 7.—A horrible warning to boys who try to steal rides on freight cars has been shown by the pathetic death of one of the city's brightest little youngsters, which occurred Wednesday evening. James Mokas, seven years of age, known among his playmates as "Jimmie," died at the Wabash county hospital at 8:15 o'clock Wednesday evening from injuries received four hours earlier in the day while attempting to jump on a moving freight train.

Wednesday afternoon the lad and a boy named Ludrich Labuda, six years his senior started out to play. They walked down to the Big Four tracks and strolled north, a quarter of a mile beyond the Wabash bridge which crosses the Big Four tracks. While they were playing, northbound freight train No. 72 came along, being pushed over the grade by a switch engine. The Mokas lad atttempted to jump up to the side ladder and fell beneath the wheels. Both legs were cut off just below the knee.

The accident was witnessed by young Labuda and in a moment he was at his playmate's side. Picking the boy up he carried him to the home of Joseph Barrett, on Michigan street. A physician was hurriedly summoned and the boy, who had not lost consciousness, was soon in an auto and being whirled away to the county hospital.

All efforts to save the boy's life were of no avail and after four hours of intense suffering the little victim passed into a deep sleep which soon resulted in death.

The body was removed to the home from which the funeral services were conducted at 10 o'clock this morning.

BROTHER AND SISTER MEET.

After 32 Years in Tocoma, Leonard Shull Returns and Finds Sister.

Auburn, Ind., April 7.—After being apart for thirty-two years Leonard Shull and Mrs. Susan Breck, brother and sister, met for the first time Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Shull has just arrived from Tacoma, Wash., where he has been engaged in raising fruit. He was down at the Junction shaking hands with old friends when a strange lady approached him and introduced herself as his sister. Mr. Shull was utterly astonished to see her. He had remembered he had a sister by that name, but knowing she lived in South Whitley, expected she would be the last one on earth to meet in Auburn. It happens that Mrs. Beck arrived the other day to visit her relatives in this city, entirely ignorant of the fact that her brother, whom she had not seen for years, had also come to make her visit the more complete. Mr. Shull is a brother to Mrs. J. C. Feagler, Mrs. J. L. McClellan and Eli Shull and Jacob Shull, who now resides on the old homestead south of town. Both Mr. Shull and Mrs. Beck will remain in the city as guests of their several relatives and friends for some time, after which they will part again and go to their homes.

LOGANSPORT WILL RECEIVE BEN HURS

Each Lodge in District Will Send Delegations to the Big Meeting on May 3 and 4.

Logansport, Ind., April 7.—Perhaps one of the largest gatherings of this order in the state will be the big district meeting of the Ben Hur lodge which will be held here May 3 and 4. Each lodge in the district is entitled to three delegates, but aside from those many lodges will send large delegations. Most of the Ben Hur orders of the various neighboring cities have elected their representatives and are now planning on chartering special cars to bring practically their entire body of members.

Two classes of candidates will be initiated, the combined number being about 100. On the first night the degree work will be put on by the team from Fort Wayne. The Fort Wayne staff is one of the largest in the United States, containing thirty-four members. The work of the second evening will be done by the Marion team. On the first evening a banquet will be served by the women of the Logansport Methodist church. Preparations are being made to serve 500 persons.

Fort Wayne has chartered a special car to carry their delegation and already sixty people have pledged to come. Auburn, Kendallville and Garrett will also make the trip in a special car. About twenty-five will come from Huntington and it is probable they will be transported in the car with Auburn and the other two cities.

SET DATE FOR STREET FAIR.

Albion Merchants Will Award $400 Worth of Premiums.

Albion, Ind., April 7.—At a meeting of the officials of the Albion street fair Wednesday evening in the office of Dr. J. W. Morr it was decided to have the street fair from September 27 to 30 and to offer a sweepstakes premium consisting of the greatest number of points, the prizes being valued at from $25 to $35. This will be an inducement to have a number of different articles on display and will make the affair bigger and better than ever before.

Walter Cramer was appointed by President Stanley to look after the matter of a parade during the fair and Adolph Schloss will investigate as to whether the ladies would desire to furnish needle and art work at the exhibitions.

According to President Stanley the officials expect to spend approximately $400 for the inducement of special attractions, which alone will be worthy of careful consideration.

BOYS SHOT IN PLAY.

Two Huntington Lads Play Cow Boy —Gun Accidentally Discharged.

Huntington, Ind., April 7.—As a result of playing cowboy yesterday, Charles Berry, son of William V. Berry, and Donald Morse, son of Charles Morse, are laid up with injuries the nature of which await developments. The lads were playing with an old 22-calibre rifle. Young Morse had cocked the hammer and was holding his hand over the muzzle when it was accidentally discharged. The bullet passed through his hand and struck young Berry in the region of the groin. Both were taken to the Morse home and a surgeon was called. It is thought that the wound which Master Morse sustained will not prove serious but in the case of Charles Berry little can be stated definitely. The surgeon probed for the bullet but was unable to locate it. An operation will probably be performed today to remove the lead.

MOTHER OF 17 CHILDREN.

Blackford County Statistics Reported —Remarkable Record for Family.

Hartford City, Ind., April 7.—The vital statistics as reported from the physicians over the county to Dr. Samuel Hollis, of Hartford City, for the month of March show that outside of Hartford City and Montpelier there were twelve births and five deaths. For the quarter ending April 1 there were forty-seven marriages. The oldest groom was 58 and the oldest bride 41. The youngest bride was 14 and the youngest groom 15.

One of the births reported was in the family of Isaac Dogers, of Harrison township. It was the seventeenth child born to Mr. and Mrs. Rogers. Fifteen of the children are living. The father and mother are each forty-five years of age.

COUNTY EXAMINATIONS REPORT.

Auburn, Ind., April 9.—Superintendent H. E. Coe has completed the graduation of the papers of those who took the examination for graduation from the eighth grade in DeKalb county. Of the 275 that took the examination there were sixty-eight who made the required grade in all branches to pass and thirty-four more came so near the goal that they only failed in one branch and are put on what is called the conditional list, that is they can return at the next examination, take the examination in this one branch and if they pass in this branch will be entitled to graduate.

CEMENT PLANT JOINS TRUST.

Warsaw, Ind., April 7.—The Syracuse Cement plant will soon pass into the hands of the Sandusky Portland Cement company, which has just increased its capital stock from $400,000 to $3,000,000 and changed its incorporation from under the laws of West Virginia to the laws of Ohio. The Syracuse plant is one of the best in the west, and will be joined in the merging by plants now operated at Bay Ridge, Ohio; Dixon, Ill., and York, Pa. The cement industry has grown to wondrous proportions and the Kosciusko county lakes have marl enough for almost any demand on the output.

EXPENSIVE OPTION ELECTIONS.

Warsaw, Ind., April 7.—The recent local option elections, held in thirteen townships of Kosciusko county and the city of Warsaw, cost the taxpayers a total of $1,752.26, which will be paid by the township trustees and the city of Warsaw, each voting unit paying for its own election. The cost of the local option elections was over $100 more than the county option election two years ago, because of the fact that fourteen separate elections were held this time instead of one.

STORK BEATS GRIM REAPER.

Kendallville, Ind., April 7.—The report of the county health officer for the month of March shows that, judging from the death and birth statistics alone, there is another increase in the population of Noble county, the births having exceeded the deaths by eight. There were eighteen deaths during the month and they were equally divided among the sexes, nine being males and nine females, while of the births sixteen were females and ten males.

DECATUR WET AGAIN.

Decatur, Ind., April 7.—The Ellis saloon opened for business at 11 o'clock yesterday morning and for the first time in eighteen months those so desiring may now legally buy a drink of liquor. In other words, Decatur is "wet." The Knupke, Andrews and possibly the Murray places will be opened by tomorrow, and the Rademaker saloon on the eighteenth of the month, the latter waiting for new fixtures which have been ordered and will arrive in a few days.

NINE WOULD-BE POSTMEN

Decatur, Ind., April 7.—Nine eligible applicants have been reported to George Everett, of the local civil service examining board for the examination for the appointment as city mail carrier and postoffice clerk, which will be held tomorrow at 9 o'clock at the local office.

FIREMAN TO GIVE SHOW.

Bluffton, Ind., April 7.—At their regular meeting the city fire department decided to give a motion picture and vaudeville show some time later in this month in the Grand Opera house. The proceeds will be devoted to defraying their expenses to the annual meeting of the volunteer firemen in this part of the state.

INDIANA PAINT AND VARNISH STORE TOMORROW—SOUVENIRS TO ALL.

Heretofore Miladi's milliner, her costumer, and humble man's tailor or haberdasher alone enjoyed the distinction of announcing formally the arrival of the latest in spring creations and importations.

But times have changed.

The Formal Opening is an institution in many lines. Even the housekeeper, who in these modern days assumes the supervision of the annual spring cleaning—and the painting, finishing, or "touching up" incidental thereto—is informed by appropriate and correct announcement that a special display of up-to-date paints and finishes await her inspection.

The Acme Quality Paint Store, operated by the Indiana Paint and Varnish Company, Clinton and Main streets, are on Saturday of this week keeping "open house" and presenting all visitors with useful souvenirs. Flowers and samples will be given away and this unique and practical manner of keeping the Fort Wayne public posted on the latest and most approved finishing methods will undoubtedly become an annual function with the Acme Quality Paint Store.

They have arranged a special exhibit which will interestingly show the uses and results of their various products, and Mr. S. W. Newell, Manager, will act as host, receiving and greeting his many Fort Wayne friends and acquaintances, among whom are a large number of contracting painters.

The store has been most daintily decorated for the occasion and elaborate arrangements perfected for an auspicious inauguration of the 1911 painting season.

BOARD OF WORKS ROUTINE.

Double Track to Be Put Down on the Spy Run Bridge.

If the consent of the council can be obtained the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company will be granted permission to lay a double track across the Spy Run bridge when the street is paved. It will not be allowed to cut into Wallace street east of Calhoun for a switch which was wanted while the tracks at Broadway are being elevated.

The opening of Force street into Weisser park was again postponed as the property owners have not reached an agreement. Anton Rieg got the contract for a small local sewer at 59 cents a foot and Fred Fuelling was awarded another small contract at 86 cents a foot. One is in Bloomingdale and one in South Wayne.

A remonstrance bearing twenty-seven signatures against the paving of John street between Creighton avenue and Pontiac street was received and filed by the board.

All remonstrances on streets for which plans were ordered March 28 must be on file with the board by 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Plans were ordered for cement sidewalks on both sides of Anderson avenue from Spy Run east a distance of a block and a half, and on Superior street from Wells street to Jackson street.

For the fourth time a petition for paving Maple avenue from Broadway to Thompson avenue was received and the engineer was ordered to send the plans down once more.

JACKSON WILL WED IN MAY.

Democratic State Chairman Fails to Keep Secret From Friends.

Indianapolis, April 7.—Stokes Jackson, democratic state chairman and sergeant-at-arms of the national house of representatives, and Miss Grace Gardner, stenographer to Judge E. W. Felt, of the appellate court, will be married some time next month. Miss Gardner's mother died last week and the marriage was postponed on that account. Mr. Jackson and Miss Gardner expected to keep the fact of their approaching marriage a secret. It has been known for some time by friends in Indianapolis. Miss Gardner was employed as a stenographer in the democratic state campaign headquarters during the last campaign. Her home is in Hillsdale, Mich. Mr. Jackson will return to Indianapolis from Washington within the next few days.

THREE FIRE HORSES SOLD.

Duke and Gyp, two faithful old fire horses, which for the past twelve years have pulled the hose wagon for No. 1 engine house, having passed the stage of usefulness, were sold Monday afternoon to George Stanley, a gypsy, who also purchased a horse from No. 2 engine house. The two horses that have been pulling the police patrol will replace Duke and Gyp, but it will be many a day before they will replace them in the affections of the men of the department, who sadly witnessed the departure of their old friends.

LAFOLLETTE'S GOOD MOVE.

With that adroitness which is the distinction of most of his moves Senator LaFollette has taken care that the further investigation of the Lorimer scandal shall not be made by a committee of Vice President Sherman's picking. In his resolution to probe the Lorimer election anew Senator LaFollette designates the personnel of the committee and it embraces the new members of the senate. The purpose is honest; the means of carrying it forward fair and unobjectionable. The new members are such men as can set about the work with no embarrassment of old friendships or personal alliances in the senate, with open minds and the incentive to be thorough and impartial in their efforts to sift out the truth.

The Kohlsaat and Funk testimony before the Springfield investigating committee not only gives occasion to the senate but puts urgency upon it to reopen the Lorimer affair. The verdict at the last session was not a demonstration that Lorimer's seat is undefiled; it was merely a gratuitous acquittal voted him in some respect for reasons personal to himself and in other respects for reasons doubtless personal to some of those who stood by him. That verdict contravened evidence before the committee and within the cognizance of the senate. The case has become stronger—quite as much to the moral olfactories as to the mental apprehension—than it was when the senate considered the case. New testimony has been given; more is obtainable.

Senator LaFollette is for the probe that knows no brother. Such an investigation by such a committee as he proposes will drag the truth forth naked to the gaze. That is what is wanted. If Senator Lorimer is entitled to his seat the people of his state and of his country want him to have it. If his toga is undefiled, the people of his state and of his country want to see it invest him spotless. If its defilements are from mud thrown by malice, jealousy and rancor and not from dirty hands of such as put it upon him, the people of his state and of his country would see it made white. The people of his state and of his country now and always would rather see a senator of the United States worthy of his place than proved unfit for it. The committee proposed by Senator LaFollette can be trusted to give justice safe conduct through the mazes of the Lorimer case. The spectacle of a wholly ingenuous senate committee will, too, be a unique refreshment of and for itself worth while.

The federal government announces that it will neglect no precaution to invest the people's interest with every safeguard during the forthcoming trial of the bathtub trust in the United States court in Detroit. This is made clear to mean that no chances will be taken with the defendant interest and its relations with the jury. Veniremen will be kept under espionage and the chosen jurors and finally the completed jury will be within range of the secret service's vigilant eye. Umph! Likewise ah! So that is a clue to the way it's been done in prosecutions that proved abortive. Jury-fixing has risen to the eminence of a fine art in this land of all kinds of easy money, and without meaning to cast any aspersion on the innocence and virtue of that benevolent institution, the bathtub trust, we commend the stern even if tardy vigilance of the government to the general approbation.

The interests no longer control the house, but they are desperately trying to keep their tailholt on the senate and that with unpleasant prospect of succeeding. The standpat element of the majority and the reactionary and Baileyized element of the minority may prove too strong a combination for the progressives of both parties. Teamwork is the great reliance of big business in its lawmaking enterprises and legislative adventures and a fine example of it is in progress right now in Washington. The remedy has not a great distance yet to come. Popular election of senators will put hobbles on big business and the diligent men whose election to the senate they procure.

Senator Lorimer excuses himself from making comment on the latest phase of the scandal that involves his election by repeating that he never discusses matters personal to himself. Now, will the senate of the United States and the legislature of Illinois please rise-up-William-Riley and account to Mr. Lorimer for their butting in? Afterthought: But Mr. Lorimer did comment on the matter a time or two and at some length in the senate. However no one can reasonably deny Mr. Lorimer the right to a silence as golden as his triumphant campaign if that is the way he feels about it at this time and under such circumstances as we know of.

United States Senator Kern is losing no more time than his eminent predecessor in bathing in the limelight. The cases differ only in the fact that Mr. Beveridge jumped and Mr. Kern was pushed in. Both got in all over. But it is not so shocking to the fathers of the senate in the later instance as it was when Beveridge was a boy.

China figures on paying her national debt on the proceeds of the sale of disappearing pigtails for which there is a fine market in America and Europe. Sometime a change of fashion will put the little old United States in line for discharge of a national debt by the sale of baled hair. We've got the supply and it's detached.

Aldrich gone. Burrows gone, Hale gone, most of the other bell wethers of the senate gone. Mr. Lorimer, it appears, will have to depend a lot on his colleague, Senator Cullom, for guidance when he enters the senate chamber a little late during the progress of a vote.

We have no doubt that the jingoes who persist in picking at what they term the Japanese situation can sooner or later irritate it to a state of unmistakable belligerency And as a general thing it will be found the warmakers are not warriors.

Memphis has offered Mr. Bryan a subsidy of $2,000,000 to come and stake out a homestead in that city. That may not be much for Memphis to pay but it is a good deal for Mr. Bryan to refuse, which he has done.

As a United States senator-at-large Colonel Bryan seems to be filling the bill with great readiness and facility.

REFORM AT THE TABLE.

Editor The Sentinel: I noticed the other day that a society had been formed to improve the table manners of the Kansas population.

Judging from some of the boarders at our house—and it's considered quite one of the best—such a movement right here in Fort Wayne would not fail for lack of material. Women as a rule know how to conduct themselves around the festive board, but their husbands—well, you should see some of them here.

One stout masculine starts in by tying his napkin securely around his No. 17 neck. "Now let 1 come," he seems to say, "I'm ready." He takes soup, of course, from the point of his spoon, and with a noise akin to a suction pump. "Fine," his eyes say, while bedecking his bib with spots every now and again from his overburdened spoon. Meanwhile the roast and vegetables appear and he turns to his trusty knife. His one use for the fork is to hold down things to cut the same. Meat, potatoes, aye, and peas, are conveyed to his mouth with his knife. True, some roll off, but what cares he? Isn't his trusty serviette in place? Of course he takes his coffee with his roast—all this kind do.

The china is nice here—the cups have handles. Don't laugh, gentle reader; I was recommended to a hotel on Calhoun street where such a thing was unknown. "A cup with a handle? Lah, sir, I never seen such a thing where I worked," said the maid who waited upon me for the one meal I partook there.

But to return to my fat friend. He entirely ignores the handle, but in some wonderful way manages to grasp the cup with the aid of the spoon sticking up and thus he drinks his beverage. And one always knows when he's drinking. "Hot, this coffee, ain't it?" he turns to me, after assailing my ears with his noisome sounds. Hot, I think; I wish it were boiling off.

Well, he's done. Off comes the soiled napkin, and he rushes to the toothpicks. They who run the place have the decency to keep them outside somewhere. Should I see my cannibal friend upstairs though, he is surely conversing with some one, between picks, however. He sometimes lets go of the toothpick when he lights his cigar, but he can manage both nicely, thank you.

And opposite sits his wife, with manners as correct and dainty as you please. Wherein lies the trouble? Surely she must know. Perhaps in the early days she tried to reform him, but gave up in despair. Can she love him? Bosh! Impossible. It's just that, as yet, the divorce laws are too stringent, and being a hog is not, as it should be, just cause."

TABLE MANNERS.

THE ARMY POSTERS.

(Pittsburg Dispatch.)

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis has taken to "muck-raking" Uncle Sam's recruiting office. At least that is what it would be called if what he says had appeared in print as the product of an ordinary publicist. Briefly, the judge, in effect, charges Uncle Sam with obtaining recruits under false pretense, that the gay army posters are no better than a bunko game. These posters, as everyone knows, represent the soldier boys as riding magnificent horses and posing in picturesque ease in full dress uniforms. What they ought to show, according to Judge Landis, is a bunch of "raw rookies" peeling potatoes, scrubbing floors, sweeping company streets and doing other menial and unromantic tasks that take up so much of their time daily as to make the fraction left for cavorting on gaily caprisoned chargers absolutely infinitesimal.

If the recruiting officers, he says, think it necessary to deceive the recruit into enlisting, he doubts whether the embryonic soldier who has to be lured into the army is going to do it much credit. Young fellows who enlist with the idea that it's all fun in the army soon discover their mistake; their disappointment drives them to desertion, and both the army and the man lose by the experience.

There is undoubtedly something in this criticism. Yet the methods followed are those of the recruiting officer in any country where compulsory service does not render recruiting efforts unnecessary. The British recruiting sergeant goes forth decorated in his best and draws a picture even less in keeping with the facts than the American army poster. But two wrongs, of course, never make a right. It can at least be said for the American recruiting officers that they do not enlist men not in condition to realize what they are doing. They presume that the applicant has given the step careful consideration and that he has enough intelligence to know that he will have to work. But whether the mental tasks to which Judge Landis refers occur to the average applicant is another question, as is what effect that knowledge would have upon the rush to enlist. The judge is at least right in saying that the man who would shy at those tasks is better out of the army.

SPELLING BEE ABSURDITIES.

(South Bend Times.)

Another absurdity of the spelling phobists was manifested last week at the state capital in Indianapolis. A boy from St. Joseph county was counted out because he spelled "traveller" as he finds it in four-fifths of English literature and two-thirds of the dictionaries, because "the Alexander speller" made it "traveler." If the state superintendent of instruction does not wish to make his spelling crusade absolutely ridiculous he ought to prescribe rules that will admit any established form where reputable authorities differ. All educators know that practical knowledge of spelling comes chiefly through familiarity with words. Hence to restrict competitors to a form found in some spelling books is to put a handicap on those who are general readers; because their familiarity with usual forms may easily confuse them as to the arbitrary spelling required. In other words, the Alexander speller method puts a premium on lack of information.

It will be recalled that in a county contest, a few weeks ago, a girl was put down and out for spelling "Saviour" the way she had read it in her Bible. The presumption is that the judges on that occasion were more familiar with the Alexander speller than with the Scriptures.

But all these absurdities bring water to the mills of the simplified spelling reformers whose rule is to spell a word in the most natural way.

ENGLAND WILL GUARD YOUTH.

Children Will Not Be Allowed to Trade on the Streets.

(New York Sun.)

Lord Shaftesbury has drafted a bill which will prohibit any street trading by boys under seventeen years and by girls under eighteen. The idea underlying the bill is that street trading destroys the potential capacity of children to become good citizens, turning the boys and girls who engage in it into hopeless unemployables, whose ultimate destiny is the prison and the workhouse.

The London county council, which tried registration of juvenile street traders, has decided that the system of badges has not been a success, and it has just adopted new by-laws to deal with the evil. These by-laws will have the effect of taking off the streets ten thousand boys and one thousand girls who are at present engaged in street trading. Among the changes are the following:

No boy under fourteen or girl under sixteen to be employed in street trading.

No boy under sixteen to be employed in street trading before 6 a. m. or after 9 p. m.

No boy or girl under fourteen, liable to attend full time at school, to be employed for more than three and a half hours a day.

No boy or girl under fourteen to lather customers or do other work in a barber's shop.

IN THE CITY'S CHURCHES

CONTEST HELD IN ORATORY

Interesting Event Being Arranged by Young People's Societies.

LOCAL UNION EVENTS

The local union of the young people's societies, which includes the Baptist, Grace Reformed, Crescent Avenue church, Bethany Presbyterian, United Brethren, West Jefferson Street church of Christ, Bethel Evangelical, church of God, Plymouth Congregational, West Creighton Avenue church and the Third Presbyterian organizations, is arranging a very interesting event for some evening. It is in the nature of an oratorical contest. The members of the different societies will compete in individual society contests for first honors in oratory on addresses delivered at their regular meetings in April. The winners chosen at these contests will then compete in an intersociety contest to be held in May. This is something new with the societies of this city. Hence all of the societies of the local union have not yet cooperated in it, but enough of them have signified their intention to participate to make it an event of interest. The date and place for holding it have not yet been selected.

Union Mass Meeting.

All interest is now centered in the union mass meeting which will take place on Easter evening at 6 o'clock in the First Baptist church. The local union prayer meeting committee in charge of this meeting has been fortunate in securing the services of Rev. Robert L. Roberts, D. D., of Franklin college, Franklin, Ind., who will deliver the address of the evening. Rev. Roberts is the state missionary of the Baptist church and for the past several years has been very prominently engaged in young people's work in this state. A special program of music is being arranged and the song service preceding the regular service will be in charge of one of the local singers. While the service is especially for the young people of the union anyone desiring to attend is cordially invited.

A Special Address.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Plymouth Congregational church has arranged a special program of service for their meeting at 6:30 o'clock Sunday evening. Arthur W. Parry will be in charge of the service and will deliver a short address on "A Lawyer's Analysis of the Trial of Christ," which is along the line of the topic for that evening. Following this Miss Mabel Carter will render a solo, "He Was Despised and Rejected of Men," which is taken from Handel's Messiah." The service will be along the line of that as outlined by the committee of the local union.

Leaders for Sunday.

Sunday evening will conclude the series of Sunday evening meetings which have been held in the young people's societies of the local union for the past two Sundays in the study of the booklet, "His Last Week," which takes up the life of Christ during Passion Week. Leaders announced in the various societies are as follows:

First Baptist—Miss Mae Covington.
Grace Reformed—W. F. Close.
Crescent Avenue Church — Miss Emma Lambourn.
Bethany Presbyterian—Henry Miller.
West Jefferson Street Church—Miss Augusta Winkler.
United Brethren—Rev. G. F. Byrer.
Bethel Evangelical—Karl Baltzell.
Church of God—Miss Pearl Springer.
Plymouth Congregational—Arthur W. Parry.
West Creighton Avenue Church—H. Hiler.
Third Presbyterian—Rev. Edward Montgomery.

Business Meetings.

The regular monthly business meetings of the Christian Endeavor society of the West Jefferson Street Church of Christ will be held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Koons, 1319 West Wayne street.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Third Presbyterian church will hold their regular monthly business meeting next Friday evening at the home of Mrs. J. F. McCurdy, 2435 South Webster street. At this meeting several members of the society will take part in the oratorical contest now being conducted among the individual societies.

A business meeting of the young people's society of the United Brethren church will be held on next Tuesday evening at the home of H. J. Neasel, 2127 Smith street. A social will also be held in connection with the business meeting.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION

Held by Schools of Marion at Antioch Church.

The Sunday school convention of Marion township was held last Sunday at the Antioch Lutheran church, and although the storm prevented many from attending, the exercises were carried out and the meeting proved an interesting one. The officers of the township organization are as follows:

President—C. F. Hubler, Hoagland, Ind.

Vice President—Simon Somers, Poe, Ind.

Secretary and Treasurer — Lucius Somers, Poe, Ind.

Department Superintendents — Adult, O. A. Hadley; teacher's training, Rev. Mr. Johnson; missionary, Mrs. A. K. Mumma; home, Miss Florence Morton; elementary, Mrs. Nettie Hubler; temperance, Mrs. Robert Mercer.

The afternoon program included an address on "Adult Bible Classes" by Rev. Earl M. Todd, of Fort Wayne; address on "Missions in the Sunday Schools" by Rev. Mr. Mumma, of Hoagland, and an address on "General and Complete Organization," by Mrs. Hubler.

The storm prevented the sessions of the evening. Another meeting will be held soon at which the two evening speakers, Rev. Mr. Mumma, of Hoagland, and Mr. Elzie, of Ossian, will be heard.

HOLY WEEK SERVICES.

Held Next Week at the Christ Lutheran Church.

Wednesday—"The Trial of Christ from the Lawyer's View Point," Mr. Arthur W. Parry.

Thursday—Preparatory service.

Friday—"The Day of Atonement."

These services begin promptly at 8 o'clock p. m. At each of the services views of the paintings of Tissot, Dore and Landseer of the passion of the Christ.

Annual Meeting Tonight.

The congregation of the Third Presbyterian church will hold their annual meeting tonight, for the purpose of hearing reports, election of officers, and such other business as may be presented. After the business meeting a social session will be held at which refreshments will be served.

PROBABLY NO CHANGES.

Pastors and Presiding Elder Will Be Returned Here.

One of the matters of local interest to be acted on at the sessions of the annual state conference of the churches of the Evangelical association being held this week at Berne will be the selection of presiding elders of the districts of the state. The present presiding elder of the Fort Wayne district is Rev. J. J. Wise. His term has not yet expired and hence there will probably not be any change in this district. The two other present presiding elders are Rev. L. M. Fisher, of Indianapolis, and Rev. Dr. Mosier, of Elkhart.

Rev. C. D. Rarey will be returned as pastor of the Bethel church and Rev. C. A. Hirschman to the Crescent Avenue church. At the sessions Thursday a class of ministers passed successfully the examination for the second year, an examination conducted by the conference board of examiners during the first four years of a pastor's ministry.

The conference will continue over Sunday. The place of the next meeting may be determined at the session held late Saturday. Assignments of pastors to their charges for the coming year will also be announced at that time.

Will Hold Easter Sale.

The ladies of Trinity Episcopal parish are planning to have a sale of baked goods, aprons and fancy articles at the home of Mrs. W. W. Shryock on Easter Saturday, April 15. There will be Easter novelties, eggs and similar things which will make pretty favors for the holiday.

Will Deliver Lecture.

Rev. D. L. Schultz, superintendent of the Bible Training school on South Wayne avenue, will lecture tomorrow evening at the school on the subject, "Spurgeon's Sermon in Candles." Nearly half a hundred stereopticon slides will be used to illustrate the subject.

Grace Reformed.

At the Lenten services this evening at the Grace Reformed church Rev. E. M. Todd will preach the sermon.

YOU don't expect much variation in the style and design in men's clothes; they're not like women's stuff, you know, with new, radical changes every season. The good old sack suit is too business-like and convenient; men wouldn't stand for much change in it.

But men like variety, too, without radical change. New weaves, new colors and patterns; variations in the length of the coat; the length and roll and shape of the lapel. Three buttons, two buttons, one button; flare or straight skirts; these are some of the things style-makers do for you.

Hart Schaffner & Marx

Do these things just right; that's one reason why so many particular dressers are particular to get these clothes. Style modifications can't be trusted to anybody who isn't expert.

Young men like the Shape-maker and Varsity suit styles; and the new Raglan, button-through, Chesterfield, box back overcoats; the work of Hart Schaffner & Marx in these models is exceptional.

When can you come and see them? We're waiting to see you and show you.

FOUNDLINGS STARTING FOR HOMES IN THE WEST.

BABIES WITH THEIR NURSES WAITING FOR THE STREET CAR. PAUL THOMPSON PHOTO.

New York, April 7.—In a special car all to themselves, sixty-seven babies from the New York foundling hospital, ranging in ages from one and a half to four years, left New York to travel some of them entirely across the continent, others to Texas, a few to Oklahoma and more to Washington state.

Following the usual custom of the hospital, every Christmas a list of those asking for babies is made out and their reputations investigated. Pictures of the babies are sent to the families applying, and usually each family returns a picture of its members. If there are not enough applicants for the unfortunates, foster parents are advertised for or found in some other manner. This year there were more applicants than could be accommodated.

Most of the babies went to Texas and Oklahoma, although the first few were left at Springfield, Ill. San Antonio and Dallas each acquired three new inhabitants, and five of the children were left at different points near Oklahoma City. Fifteen more were distributed through that state. The car in which the babies traveled was switched from one train to another in order to touch at all the points desired, and the entire trip to Spokane, where the last of the six babies who go to Washington will be left, will take almost three weeks.

OUR WELL BALANCED RATION.

America Has the Finest Food Supply in the World.

(Washington Evening Star.)

That America has the finest food supply of any country in the world, and that the plentiful and well balanced ration is responsible for much of the success of the United States as a nation, is the conclusion drawn by C. F. Langworthy, chief of the nutrition investigations, in a pamphlet issued by the department of agriculture.

Mr. Langworthy goes into the food supply of prehistoric man and of nations of which we know but little except through popular writings, and states that many of the impressions which these writers gave are erroneous. He says, for instance, that the idea that the Chinese and Japanese are nations of rice eaters is false. It is true that both these people eat large quantities of rice, compared with western nations, but that it is merely their chief starchy food, and that it would be just as accurate to refer to the United States as a nation of wheat eaters or to say that beans and brown bread were the exclusive diet in New England. He says it is surprising to see what a well balanced ration is common among all nations, though some take their food in one form and some in another.

CUPID CAUSED A MIGRATION.

Twenty Scotch lassies have arrived on the Anchor liner Caledonia to wed men of their choice who preceded them to this country and have prepared homes for them. Another passenger was the Rev. David Hay, of Londonderry, who is on his way to New Orleans to marry Miss Helen Smythe. Miss Smythe's father, Dr. Underwood Smythe, gave up his practice in New Orleans several years ago, and now lives permanently in Ireland. His daughter is in the south on a visit with friends.—New York Tribune.

HOW TO MAKE CURRANT BREAD

Housewives who have heard about the wholesomeness of Currant Bread and know that it is as nourishing as it is "good to eat" will appreciate these two new recipes:

No. 1.—Scald 2½ cups milk. When cool add three tablespoonfuls sugar, a little salt, and butter the size of an egg. Dissolve ½ compresed yeast cake in half-cup warm water and add to milk. Stir in flour enough to make a batter and add one pound of currants washed and dried. Add flour. When raised knead again and place in pans for baking. Be sure to allow enough time for bread to raise in the pans.

No. 2—Scald (do not boil) 1½ cups sweet milk and one cup water. When tepid add ½ cake compressed yeast, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and a teaspoonful of salt. Stir in enough whole-wheat flour to make a stiff batter. Allow to raise. When light add one egg, one tablespoonful of melted butter, 1½ cups of cleaned and dried currants. Beat well, then add whole-wheat flour to make a soft dough. Work well, mould into two loaves, let raise until light, and then bake thoroughly.

There is nothing so good as Currant Bread for growing children. It makes ideal school lunches. That no butter is needed is also worth considering.

SLIP FOR LINGERIE DRESSES.

BY MRS. JANE FORD.

Nearly all the new models of the lingerie order require an underslip of silk or fine mull. These slips can be bought ready to wear, but most girls and women prefer to make them, and perfectly lovely things can be turned out at a small cost if one is willing to give a little time to the making.

The material for the slip or slips must be decided upon, and if the dress in question is white, the up-to-date girl plans at least three slips for wear with it. One must be white and the other two dainty shades of becoming colors. Silk is always desirable, if expense need not be taken into consideration, and the weaves known as crepe de chine, messaline, liberty and China are most used. The woman who cannot afford these materials need not be discouraged, for silk mull is an excellent substitute; it is less than half the price of silk per yard, much wider and, except upon close examination, has every appearance of the more costly article. Besides this there is batiste, which is still less expensive, and it may be had in colors as well as white.

I know it is a great temptation to most women to trim all undergarments and it is little wonder, because the soft, pretty laces in combination with sheer materials are almost irresistible; but in the case of slips, if economy must be practised, let your better judgment sway you, omit trimming and put the money you would have spent for that in getting a better quality of goods.

The pattern is next to be considered, and one finished with a deep flounce at the lower edge having good straight lines should be given preference. In all probability you will want to have the closing at the back, but if the dress is of a character that it is desirable to make it at the front or side front, while it may be difficult to get a pattern arranged in this way, there is no reason why this model cannot be arranged to close as desired.

To copy this charming slip for the average woman it requires only four and three-quarters yards of thirty-four-inch goods, with four and one-quarter yards of flouncing thirteen inches wide. Although the waist line is high, it is desirable for wear under garments that show the normal waist line, as it does away with all fullness at that point and makes one appear more slender.

Performances of "Egypta" Improve Daily, and Audiences Are Larger.

What Mr. Chenery declared to be one of the very best performances of "Egypta" he had ever conducted anywhere was that of last night when the Majestic was so packed with people to see the entertainment that only the first and second boxes were unoccupied. The entire cast seemed to be in splendid voice and people who had seen the first performance were amazed at the improvement made by the solo singers. A remarkable feature of this sacred opera is the effect it has on the cast. Amateurs though they are, both men and women and even children appear to realize the spirit of the story and the meaning of the lines and their expressive countenances do much towards making the performance very impressive. The closing act is especially touching and the beauty of all the numerous scenes is striking. The part of the babe, Moses, is taken every night by a real infant. Last night a girl baby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Foellinger, played the role just as well as if she were a boy.

The sale of tickets by the school children has netted the Playgrounds association approximately $1,500. When the box office receipts are added to that the association will probably have a sum which will equip the Van Buren street playgrounds even better than it had been hoped to accomplish.

TIME TABLE FOR BOILING VEGETABLES.

Potatoes, 30 minutes, unless small, when rather less; cabbage and cauliflower, 25 minutes; peas and asparagus, 20 to 25 minutes; carrots and turnips, 45 minutes when young, 1 hour in winter; onions, medium size, 1 hour; beets, 1 hour in summer, 1½ or 2 hours (if large) in winter; French beans, if slit or sliced slantwise and thin, 25 minutes, if only snapped across, 40 minutes; broad beans, if very young, 30 minutes, old, 40 to 45 minutes. All vegetables should be put into fast-boiling water and quickly brought to the boiling point again, not left to steep in hot water before boiling, which toughens them and destroys color and flavor. This time table will be found useful if copied and fastened on to the kitchen wall.

A. R. Hirons, of this city, who recently returned from a two months' sojourn in Arkansaw and Texas will leave Monday for an extensive trip through Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska, in the interests of the Miles Medical company, of Elkhart.

FUN WITH COLORED EASTER EGGS

All real boys and girls enjoy helping to dye the pretty colored eggs for Easter day and searching for them hidden in Easter nests around the garden, but perhaps few know what splendid games may be played with them before they are finally cast aside.

Not a party, or anything arranged in advance with fuss and feathers, but just good sport that can be played at any time during the holidays, when six or eight of you are together and each has a colored egg or two to lend.

Reserved Seats.

A very exciting game which will remind you of "going to Jerusalem," is called "resedved seats." It is a splendid laughter medicine, and this is the way to play it:

Have just as many chairs as there are children playing, eight or ten of them if possible, and arrange them back to back. On one chair put a colored humpty, leaving the other seats without. This is the reserved seat, and no player may use it.

The company forms in line and some older person plays a lively tune on the piano, to which the children march, circling around the chairs. When the music stops, which is always suddenly, the players scramble for the seats, but the one reserved by the egg cannot be occupied, so that one person is sure to be left out in the cold. Play several rounds, changing the position of the reserved seat all the time, and let all those who are left out in the cold during the different marches do funny things to amuse the company.

The Silence Game.

For this amusing pastime choose a dark colored egg as small as possible, and give it to the player who is to begin the fun. This player remains in the parlor, while all the others go out for just a moment into the adjoining room or hall. A moment later they are called back, and by this time the person holding the egg will have placed it in some prominent position where it is not exactly hidden, but rather inconspicuous, so as not to be immediately seen. The idea is that as soon as anyone perceives the egg, he or she says nothing, but quietly takes a seat and remains silent.

This is a signal for all those playing to sit down, too, whether they have seen the egg or not. But so many players will be too busy searching and talking to remark that someone is sitting down. One by one the players sink quietly into their seats. As soon as all but one have sat down the seated players cry out in chorus "silence!" three times, and the person who is caught must pay a forfeit. A funny forfeit is to condemn the person caught to roll an egg all around the room with a match stick.

RECIPES.

Cream Cornmeal Puffs.

Mix well together one and one-half cupfuls of cornmeal, one and one-half cupfuls of flour, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and one teaspoonful of salt. Beat the yolks of two eggs, add one and one-half cupfuls of cream and one-half of a cupful of milk and stir into the dry mixture. Beat well, stir in the stiffly whipped whites of the eggs and two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and bake in well-greased gem pans in a hot oven.

Bacon Fritters.

Bacon fritters make a savory side dish for luncheon. Cut quite fine six slices of cold fried bacon and mix with one tablespoonful of grated onion. Cut the crust from half a loaf of stale bread, soak for a few minutes in cold water, squeeze dry and crumble quite fine, mixing it with the fine crumbled inner portion. Season highly with salt, pepper and a pinch of powdered thyme, add four tablespoonfuls of melted suet or dripping and mold into small flat cakes, flouring them well. Fry in a pan in a little hot dripping.

INTEMPERANCE.

I think you will find it true that before any vice can fasten on a man, body, mind or moral nature must be debilitated. The mosses and fungi gather on sickly trees, not thriving ones; and the odious parasites which fasten on the human frame choose that which is already enfeebled. Mr. Walker, the hygeian humorist, declared that it was impossible for any impurity to stick to it, and maintained that it was an absurdity to wash a face which was of necessity always clean. I don't know how much fancy there was in this; but there is no fancy in saying that the lassitude of tired-out operatives, the languor of imaginative natures in their periods of collapse, and the vacuity of minds untrained to labor and discipline fit the soul and body for the germination of the seeds of intemperance.

Whenever the wandering demon of drunkenness finds a ship adrift—no steady wind in its sails, no thoughtful pilot directing its course—he steps on board, takes the helm and steers straight for the maelstrom.—Holmes.

Fire Chief Henry Hilbrecht this afternoon inspected the building of the J. W. Kidd company, the Weber hotel and a number of other buildings in the down-town district. He was accompanied by Jule Biemer, of No. 1 engine company.

TEA TABLE TIPS.

Such a pretty tea the other afternoon in Riverside Drive was given by a college professor's pretty bride to her girl friends. The mahogany table was charmingly laid with an embroidered centerpiece brought from Havana on the wedding journey. On this was a cut glass bowl of daffodils and ferns. The green and gold color scheme was further accentuated by the delicate Haviland china, the shades to the candles and the viands themselves. The sandwiches were each rolled around a sprig of watercress, which peeped from the end in a most alluring manner. There was an appetizing salad of salmon on lettuce with mayonnaise; olives, green confections of various sorts, including some of the California canned plums, the green pistache nuts and little cakes with pale green icing. Tea was served with either cream or lemon as desired, and was poured by a golden-haired girl in light green, who looked like one of Botticelli's spring figures.

Rolled Bread and Butter.

There is a knack about preparing rolled bread and butter for tea that not every housekeeper possesses. To roll easily the bread must not be more than a day old, while the loaves should not be more than five or six inches in diameter. Cut the slices very thin with a sharp knife, buttering each time before slicing. Thim off the crust and roll lightly, pressing just enough to have the folds adhere. If liked, the bread can be spread with a fine paste of shrimp, anchovy, chicken, cream cheese, salad or fig before rolling. If watercress is used a wooden toothpick holds it in place in the center of the roll.

Fairy Gingerbread.

Allow for this dainty one-half cupful of butter, one cupful sifted powdered sugar, one-half cupful milk, one and three-quarter cupfuls of flour, one rounded teaspoonful baking powder and two level teaspoonfuls ginger.

Cream the butter, add gradually the sugar and beat until very white and creamy. Beat in the milk, adding it very slowly. Stir in the flour sifted with the ginger. Invert a dripping pan and butter the bottom. Spread the mixture very thinly and bake in a moderate oven. Turn the pan often that it may bake evenly. Cut in squares before removing it from the pan.

Lemon Straws.

These are delicious to serve with Russian tea. Make a heavy syrup of one cup each of sugar and boiling water. Cut dried lemon skins into strips or any fancy shapes desired and dip into the boiling syrup. As soon as they become clear, take out, roll in coarse sugar and spread on sheets of brown paper to dry and crisp. Orange peel may be prepared in the same way.

Delicious Date Confection.

Wash and dry as many dates as desired, then remove the stones. Chop some preserved ginger and add an equal amount of chopped blanched almonds or pecans. Make a paste of some of the ginger syrup and confectioner's sugar and add just enough of it to hold the ginger and nuts together. Fill the dates with this mixture; press the edges together and roll in granulated sugar.

EMMA PADDOCK TELFORD.

Chicken Liver Saute—Chafing Dish.

Cut up twelve chicken or turkey livers, season with salt and pepper and put them in to the frying pan with two ounces of butter and three ounces of bacon sliced and cut into inch lengths. Fry on a quick fire for two or three minutes, add half a pint of brown sauce, a little chopped tarragon and parsley. Just before removing from the fire add a little sherry and a lump of fresh butter.

UNIONS FOR FEDERAL WORKERS

LaFollette Purposes a Bill to Legalize Such Organizations.

Washington, April 7.—Senator LaFollette intends to establish by legislation the right of government employes to organize unions in the same manner that trades are organized and affiliate with the Federation of Labor. His purpose has been made plain in a letter sent to employes of the railway mail service bearing upon the issue that has been raised between such employes of the government and Postmaster General Hitchcock and other officials of the postoffice department.

One paragraph of Senator LaFollette's letter follows:

"The railway mail clerks have the right to organize. If the officers of the department are endeavoring to prevent them from doing so through threats of discharge, such action is without legal authority or moral right. If I find conditions in the railway postal service to be generally such as has been reported I shall introduce and do everything in my power to pass a bill to prevent the continuation of such un-American practices and to preserve to all government employes the right of petition that belongs to every citizen and the right to form or join organizations for the improvement of their labor conditions."

TWO COUPLES IN THE ANNEX RAID

Officers Said They Were Drunk When They Rented Rooms

THE CITY COURT

Patrolman Louis Crawley arrested two men and two women found in rooms at the Annex hotel on West Main street Thursday night and sent them to police headquarters and this morning he said they had been drunk and wandering around the streets before they applied for lodging.

Assumed names were given by all four and the women were fined $5 and costs each and the men drew $10 a piece with suspended jail sentences of ten days.

They registered as man and wife but had no baggage and, according to the officers, were very perceptibly under the influence of liquor when they retired. No affidavits were filed today against the proprietor of the hotel. The officer said the women came from out of the city.

The Other Cases.

When Arthur L. Bohrer was questioned Thursday night by the police at the Calderwood hotel he was stillen and while he was talking he opened a knife and slipped it in his pocket. Patrolman Johnson got him before he could use it and this morning he drew $5 and costs for public intoxication.

John Smith and Ed Harris were the assumed names given by two young fellows who got drunk and broke a saloon window. They agreed to pay for it and their cases were continued indefinitely.

Four vags picked up during the night testified that they were looking for work and they were given an opportunity to secure it.

GETTING A LINE ON HIS PLAYERS

Will Hold All the Men and Give Them Good Chance to Show.

VARNELL GOES HOME

Clad in a heavy sweater and a rubber shirt to reinforce his uniform, Manager James Casey is working hard with his recruits in an effort to get a line on the men who will constitute the club to start the championship race in the Central league.

All of the men on the squad will be given ample opportunity to show what claim they have to places on the club before any of them are turned loose and there is little probability that the pruning process will be undertaken before the middle of next week. There are about twenty players on the roster and all will be kept for the present.

A few days of good weather will enable the manager to get down to playing weight and at the same time will develop the talent he has on hand. There will be no regular play until Malachi Kittredge and his Saginaw players come up from Bluffton a week from tomorrow for the first exhibition of the season.

Claire Patterson, who has been suffering with a malady which strongly resembles appendicitis, was out at the park today, but was unable to work. He thinks he will pull through all right without an operation, which would keep him out of the game for the season.

Owner Claude H. Varnell hiked last night for Wheeling, W. Va., with the announcement that he would return early next week in event there is a change for the better in the weather conditions. He has had enough training to do him for a while and it took two porters and a brakeman to get him on the sleeper last night.

He indulged in a little more practice yesterday afternoon to help his batting eye and while the optics were undoubtedly improved and aroused a number of Charley horses that had been dormant for several moons and there is where the trouble started. He is a warm weather player and will not do any more work until conditions are more favorable.

The owner said last night that he had nothing in the way of deals to strengthen his club except the promise of a good pitcher from the Detroit team. This man will be delivered next week in good trim for the season and Manager Casey will go over to Detroit and pick him out after a talk on the subject with his esteemed friend, William Donovan, who has had charge of the colts in practice.

Last night the manager had a little talk with Pitcher Whittaker in which he advised the youngster to take himself seriously. The lad has everything a pitcher needs and the manager believes he has a good future in baseball if he can be taught to look upon the game as a business proposition.

When Jimmy Burke picked him up last spring he saw the youngster had a nice lot of curves with a good fast ball, and he held to him. His work in Lacrosse was of benefit to him and in the last few days he has been kinking the ball and using some of his steam.

He has plenty of grit and all that is necessary now is to instill into his mind that this is not a frolic for him, but a serious business proposition, with good money in sight if he will go after it in the right way.

Mr. Varnell will install a telephone in the secretary's office this season for the use of railroad men, physicians and others who expect to be called during the game. This is an innovation that will be of great advantage to the patrons.

UNHOLTZ AT ST. JOSEPH.

NO MORE DRINKS IN ST. LOUIS LOT

Woman Owner Says Ladies First and Will Cater to Patronage.

TO KEEP CARDINALS

St. Louis, Mo., April 7.—To encourage the women and children of St. Louis who are becoming more deeply interested in baseball than ever in the history of the game, Mrs. Helen Hathaway Robison Britton, the new owner of the National league team, which she inherited from her uncle, the late M. Stanley Robison, has announced that the bar is forever banished from the Cardinal park.

Mr. Robison had issued a short time before his death an order that the sale of intoxicants would be barred during the present season and Mrs. Britton's announcement makes this order permanent.

"The women, girls and children are to be catered to in League park," says Mrs. Britton, "and for that reason the elimination of the liquor bar from the park remains a perpetual order.

"My uncle established that rule for this season, and it is my wish as strongly as it was his to do away with this feature of baseball.

"In the absence of the bar we expect to have more women and children.

"The women of St. Louis, I notice, are taking more and more to baseball.

"Dispose of the club?" she laughed incredulously. "I've never entertained such an idea, not for a minute. My uncle willed it to me, or at least 997 of the 1,000 shares of stock, and it will remain in the family. Not only that, but with Roger Bresnahan we will finish in the first division.

"I do love baseball. My heart is in it. I was born and brought up on it. It is clean, fine, courageous, manly and most robustly American.

"I early began to express myself in baseball terms. I was the chum of my late uncle from the time I was a little girl. I have gone all over the United States with him. I have worshiped at the feet of big American players. I have followed their careers and I know them pretty well.

"The Cardinals, while not yet in the first division, stand a pretty good show of being placed there. We shall work hard to that end, Mr. Bresnahan and I."

QUEISSER GOES TO AURORA.

Former Fort Wayne Catcher Is Sold by Denver Club.

Secretary John H. Farrell's national commission bulletin says that Art Queisser, who was with Fort Wayne part of last season, has been sold to the Aurora, Ill., team.

It also shows that Frank Wessel, who started here last year, has accepted terms with the Augusta, Ga., club, and that Warren Gill has been sold by Washington to Minneapolis.

Cooney's Five Grabs Off Three in Series With Meyer Team.

BERGHOFFS HIT 'EM

Second Brunswick leaders took a tumble last night when Cooney's Little Havanas landed three straight from the Meyer Brothers' five in a match that was interesting all the way through. The smokes won the opener by three pins, had easy going in the second, but nosed out on the third by seven.

I. Miller was the star performer of the two squads. He got going in the second game and tabbed 190, then he shot into the pins hard in the closing round and registered a count of 244, for an average of 198. Bartels sloughed 'em for 221 in his final game and led his team. The scores follow:

Former Wins Out in the First League Games—Good Scoring.

Eddie Hecht and "Southpaw" Pappert fought it out for the honors in a game last night in which the Berghoff team landed three from the Hattersleys. Pappert rolled 613 pins for his total to 608 for Hecht, and he also got the best single game with 229.

In the second game the brewers showed some speed and four of the five men registered double-century marks, picking off a total of 1,062. Henry Pranger got two doubles and was third in the count. The Hattersleys rolled with three men. The scores:

PARKER HAS HIS SQUAD EXAMINED

Made Sure Their Hearts Were Right Before Training Them.

BUTLER WILL STICK

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 7.—Dr. Harley Parker injected a new idea into minor league ball when he required all of the recruits that he has in his squad to subject themselves to an examination at the hands of his club physician to see that none of them had any heart weakness that might be aggravated by hard training.

All of the men passed muster and were sent through a hard drill yesterday for the first time since they reported on Monday. The men will have to get in some hard licks between now and Saturday, as they are booked to go against the Cadillac team in the first practice game of the season.

Ted Penfold, a player recently declared a free agent because the Des Moines club farmed him under an agreement by which it was to receive $50 a month of the salary paid the player, is here looking for a chance to play first base.

He was ordered into a uniform and now the doctor has three men trying for the job.

In the event that either he or Somerlott show exceptional form it is not unlikely that a deal will be made with the Wheeling club whereby a hard hitting outfielder will be secured in exchange for Kihm, the Stogies' management being very sweet on the mute but graceful first baseman.

Word was received today from Catcher Tim O'Brien of St. Louis, to the effect that he will not be able to report for some time owing to illness. It was at first planned to pitch Ike Butler on Saturday, but Dr. Parker decided after much consideration that it would not be advisable to risk the only pitcher he positively knows to be in condition in such weather.

Butler made the announcement that he will stick with the Grand Rapids club and will not take the management of the Traverse City team which was offered him. He journeyed all the way from California to get back among his friends here and he does not want to make another change.

Charles Lejeune of this city, formerly of Chicago, a brother of Sheldon Lejeune, champion batsman of the Central league last year, one of the strong factors in the Olympic Athletic club's winning of the indoor baseball championship this year has been selected to umpire the games Saturday and Sunday. For several years before coming to Grand Rapids Lejeune was among Chicago's leading semi-pro umpires.

FORT WAYNE NOT IN ON FESTIVAL

Aggie Grant or Eddie Wheeler to Help Raise the Flag.

CRAVEN STILL OUT

South Bend, Ind., April 7.—Surface indications point to the conclusion that Fort Wayne, the runner-up in last season's pennant race and the most cherished baseball enemy of South Bend will not be counted in on the festival incident to the raising of the pennant.

Aggie Grant was manager here for many moons and the management and local fans have a deep regard for him and his Evansville club. He is a new magnate and needs assistance because he is working hard to make a success of his venture, and for that reason his team may be picked for the honor.

Then there is Eddie Wheeler to be considered. Eddie won said pennant for the city and he is at outs with the South Bend management and wants a chance to show that his record last season was no fluke. He thinks he ought to cut in on the receipts of the big day and there is a prospect that he will be given the honor.

Although the date has not been fixed it is certain that the ceremonies will not occur on Sunday, but will be staged on a week day to stimulate the attendance.

Some uneasiness about the whereabouts of Midge Craven are expressed by Manager Smith. His transportation was sent him in plenty of time, but he has failed to report and the manager is a bit anxious about him.

INFIELD IS COMPLETED.

Manager Grant Has His Men Picked and Is Very Confident.

Evansville, Ind., April 7.—Wuffli, the man obtained from the Detroit team for the shortstop position, will report here some time next week and then the Evansville infield will be complete and no more changes are expected unless some of the recruits show most remarkable form. Dick Grefe has the first base job cinched and Hadley, who was at short last year, will be switched to second. Lil Sager will hold down third and Manager Grant will go in now and then.

Billy Snyder will be a fixture with the Columbus team this coming season according to reports from the Senators' camp. Billy is proving himself a valuable man and the chances are that he will not be back with the Evas. The Senator management has begun weeding out the old men, Snyder is slated for a regular berth.

The former Eva is a valuable man to a team in more ways than one. His speed on the paths, coupled with his hitting helped the locals out many times last year. Snyder hit when hits counted and helped win many a game for the locals last year. If he is able to hit .250 in the association, he will prove one of the Senators' strongest cards. Snyder got a bad start here early last season, but toward the close he got right and finished with a batting average of .270.

YERKES HEIRS GET ESTATE.

Wealthy Widow Bequeaths Nothing to Charitable Institutions.

New York, April 7.—The will of Mrs. Mary Adelaide Yerkes, widow of Charles T. Yerkes, which was filed yesterday for probate, leaves to each of her eight brothers and sisters one-ninth of her residuary estate; the other ninth to a nephew and niece, children of a deceased sister. Seven servants are rewarded with $1,000 each, and William Savory Lower, to whom Mrs. Yerkes was once reported to have been engaged, receives $5,000 as a "faithful friend." Mrs. Yerkes left nothing to charity. The value of the estate is not given, but it is regarded as considerable. The widow inherited about $3,000,000, it is estimated, of her late husband's estate.

YINGLING AGAINST REDS.

Earl Yingling worked part of the game against the Reds for the Cleveland team yesterday and allowed five hits in four innings. The Naps won the argument.

BEER AND TOBACCO NOT GOOD FOR MEN WHO WANT TO STICK

"To the youngster who wants a long life in baseball, I would say eschew beer and tobacco," said Cy Young recently.

"Walk and run plenty. Get good throwing and fielding and batting motions by watching approved masters at work. You must suit your own physique, but take pattern after the man who most closely approaches you in build and action. First follow nature. If you are a free hitter, no use in copying some careful hitter. Pick a man who is a free hitter and a good one, and copy from him. All good batters come pretty close to standing alike; all good pitchers have much the same motion, a free body swing; all good men on ground balls get at them pretty much in the same way. There will be slight variations due to temperament and to structure, but the grand underlying principle is the same.

"In the end, if a young man of average good physique keeps away from drink and works hard, he will surely find success in America.

"Pitchers are lazy and run and walk too little. The most that any of them want to do is to reduce flesh a bit and get their arms fit. Now, walking and running make strength. All players should take long winter walks and runs. Never mind a little cloud or a little rain. Go to it.

"I quit drinking beer early in my playing career. I drank a lot of it at first, most players did then, but found that it did not help me. So I quit it long ago. Occasionally I need a stimulant, and I drink a glass of brandy and sometimes a glass of ale. In the winter I am liable to take a drink of whisky or two. But in the season I drink but very little. I have never seen beer help a ball player. George Cuppy, a great pitcher, was wont to claim immunity from ill effects, but 'Cup' lost his arm after six years' work. He was a better pitcher than I.

"Last year I quit using tobacco. I had been an inveterate smoker for twenty-five years. But I took a last taste of it, put away my beloved pipe and feel 25 per cent. better for it. Tobacco, like liquor, affects men differently. Some it depresses, other it exhilarates. It depresses me. I feel much better for having given it up.

"I have pitched longer in fast company than any other man. I think that I was blessed with naturally supple arm muscles and a free delivery. Then I used as few curves as I could. For fifteen years I relied mainly on a fast, straight ball that 'jumped'—that is, shot up a little as it passed the batter. For the past seven years this ball has not been so good with me. My speed has not been so great. I took to using a curve about six seasons ago. Once in a while I use a spitball. I have never used the many hard and trying curves, the drops, fadeaways and other balls that are hard on the arm. I have been lucky in always having a good club behind me, and I have always relied upon the other eight men in the game. I have never tried to strike out a man in my life. I pitch him the best ball I know and trust to my fielders. He may strike out, but to make him do so is never part of my plan.

"I have never ranked as a 'foxy' pitcher or a man who studied batters. I do not rely much on tricks or stratagem, but do rely upon large general policies of pitching. I have believed in wasting few balls. I use speed and curve, and change of pace as the situation may dictate, and I do try to avoid giving a batter balls he likes. But, on the whole, I am conservative. I believe in the good old way, good speed, good control and pitch to the batter. Make him hit. There are nine of us to get him if he does hit a ball, fair or foul.

"The chief shortcoming of the young player is fickleness. He is too tender. He wants a perfect day, a perfect diamond, everything perfect. Then he does not like to work. To be frank, training does get monotonous to us old-timers, but to the boys it should be fun—play, in fact. Yet some of the old-timers—in fact, all of them—like work better than most kids. For if you do not like work you will never live to be an old-timer."

SPORTING NEWS IN TABLET FORM

Jimmy Archer showed he was an all-around man by playing right field, first base and catching at Owensboro.

Jimmy Burke has departed from the brown used in trimming the Indianapolis uniforms and has substituted a bright red.

Kansas City is wildly excited because the Blues won by a score of 4 to 3 from the Sox regulars, with Ed Walsh on the mound.

Eight hundred men are working three shifts of eight hours each to complete Washington's grandstand for the opening game.

Marquard, the big lefthander, will not be traded. The Newark club of the Eastern league, was anxious to get him, but McGraw said he would keep him for another trial.

Ben Houser, the big first baseman who is subbing for Harry Davis on the Athletics, has been acting as correspondent for some of the Philadelphia papers on the training ground.

Robert H. Young, a son of N. E. Young, the veteran ex-president of the National league, has been elected president of the amateur baseball commission of the District of Columbia, taking in ten leagues.

McKinley, a youth still in his teens, is traveling with the Toledo club on the training trip. McKinley is attending prep school and making the trip while on a vacation. He expects to play professional ball in another season.

John Ganzel is to make his permanent home in Rochester. He has purchased a lot in an aristocratic residence section and is now building a house that will cost him $10,000. And some people say baseball doesn't pay.

Bobby Wallace, the Brown leader, thinks Bill Dineen, the American league umpire, was one of the greatest and best pitchers in the game. It looks as if the new manager of the Browns was looking for a chance to get a few decisions from his old friend.

Providence this year will have a Doyle battery. "Slow Joe," for four seasons with the Highlanders, has signed with the Clam Diggers, and Manager Collins also has rounded up Catcher Matthew H. Doyle, who was with Lawrence for a brief time last year.

One year ago Charlie Bates, the new Pirate outfielder, had never witnessed a game of baseball played by professionals. He was attending a Baptist college located about ten miles from Jackson, Miss., and about the first of May he went to town and participated in the first professional game he ever witnessed.

Edward Geers, more familiarly known as "Pop" Geers, will retire from the trotting track at the end of the coming season. So runs the news from Memphis, where the veteran trainer and driver makes his home. Geers, who is now sixty-five and past, has just closed a deal for property in Memphis, on which he will build a $15,000 home.

Pittsburg has only lost one opening game in the last ten years. In 1907 Bob Ewing, then with Cincinnati, took Phillippe and Leifield into camp, 4-3. Clarke's men start this season at Cincinnati, and it is predicted that Camnitz will be on the mound. The Kentucklan won opening games in 1908, 1909 and 1910.

SHOP LEAGUE NOTES.

The Western Gas Construction company's team has placed its order for new uniforms and it expects to put in the nobbiest combination in the City Shop league. The suits will be of blue gray, with brown trimmings, and will be all spic and span for the opening days.

The players have had little opportunity to play practice games, but Manager Brossard thinks he has some good material in the shops and the new members expect to make a showing in the race.

If the weather man will just show a little good humor the Bass Foundry nine and the Pennsylvania team will play a game at Lawton park, beginning at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

* * *

If the money necessary to finance the undertaking can be raised Manager Borchert will send his Electro-Technics against the club representing the General Electric company at Madison, Wis. The Madison branch has a good ball team and would like to make the trip here for a game.

DID BUNIONS LOSE FLAG?

"HANS" WAGNER

Little Rock, Ark., April 7.—At last the secret is out and the mystery of the lost pennant by the Pittsburg Pirates has been solved. It was all on account of Hans Wagner's bunions and had it not been for the bumps on the great shortstop's feet the Cubs would not have had the honor of battling with the Athletics for the world's championship last fall.

An Arkansas chiropodist made the discovery when he completed the job of removing the last of fourteen bunions from Hans' pedal extremities. For several years Wagner has been slowing up in his game and the raise in salary year after year did not seem to increase his speed.

The great Hans never gave a thought to it.

"I never knew what ailed me," said Hans after the operation, "until I went to the chiropodist. I knew that I had slowed up considerable. The bunions had been with me so long that they were regarded as part of the family, but now I know why I couldn't get a good stand at the plate. This affected my batting and also my fielding. Then, besides, when somebody stepped on my feet it made me kind of sore and that's why I was accused of being irritable. But now I feel a thousand per cent better and I am sure to have the best season I ever had."

"But wait," said another player, "until Dreyfuss gets the bill. Then Hans will think that an elephant had stepped on his toes," for be it known all the bills Hans incurs are sent direct to Barney.

And probably the bunion theory accounted for the 12-to-2 victory of the Pirates over the University of Arkansas team yesterday. The collegians were there with the hits, fourteen of them, but they were weak in other departments of the game.

SEES DANGER IN PLAY FIGHTS.

An Army Paper Believes Sham Encounters Make Carelessness.

(Army and Navy Register.-

The mounted saber contest between troopers from Fort Myer at the second entertainment of the Riding club, of Washington, at the club house on the evening of March 18 last, was a matter of much interest and was received with hearty applause. The troopers were entirely padded and masked and engaged each other in pairs with wooden sabers. The contest consisted in striking a paper plume from the masks of the adversary. The survival of each pair engaged each other until but one was left with a plume, who became the final victor.

While spectacular and much better than nothing, this is one of the most elementary forms of swordsmanship, and if indulged in alone, to the exclusion of more complicated assaults, is liable to result in harm. There is but one object, to save one's own plume and get that of the adversary. Cuts or thrusts on the head, arms or body that in battle would disable or kill a man have no value in this game. The danger lies in forming the habit of not giving or defending one's self from many dangerous or fatal attacks, and a habit formed is harder to oversome than correct learning in the first instance.

Contests that more closely resemble any actual mounted sword fight could easily be arranged under suitable rules and could be made, not only more interesting and spectacular, but of vastly more value to the trooper, and would also permit a display of horsemanship that is entirely lacking in the plume contest.

Alive

The remark most often made regarding the German American Bank is that it is a very much alive institution.

The officers and employes are without exception always looking for and seeking some new way to serve the bank's customers.

If there is something they can do in this direction that they are not doing, they would be glad to have you tell them.

The savings department in this National bank has become one of the features of the institution. It pays 4 per cent. interest on small sums and throws around your savings all the safeguards of the National Banking system.

NATURAL FIREWORKS GORGEOUS AT DISTANCE OF SIXTY MILES

Frederick R. Spencer Describes Spectacle of the Eruption of the Taal Volcano in Philippines—What Would Happen Were the United States to Step Out and Leave the Philippines to the Filipino?

The awe-inspiring grandeur of a volcanic eruption viewed at a distance of sixty miles is graphically described in a letter by Frederick S. Spencer, an exporters in Manila, written to his sister, Miss Kay Spencer, of this city. In the same letter Mr. Spencer raises the interesting question as to the outcome were the United States government to grant the islands the independence they ask and step down and out. In part, Mr. Spencer says:

About 4:30 in the morning of January 27th there was a very distinct earthquake shock, the movement being perceptible for perhaps a full minute, with gradual diminution. An hour later a second quake was felt, if anything a trifle more severe than the first. For several days following there were quakes of more or less severity at intervals of three to five hours. I mention these latter as being perceptible at intervals of three to five hours, but as a matter of fact the instruments for detecting such disturbances were almost constantly at work, which may be evidenced by the fact that since January 27th these instruments have recorded no less than 918 shocks, severe and imperceptible. One can well imagine, therefore, that there has been some excitement in this vicinity, even had there been no eruption of the Taal volcano, the first serious eruption beginning with the terrific explosion which occurred at 2:15 on Monday morning last, January 30th.

At this hour we were awakened by a detonation, the severity of which might well be likened to the explosion of a fourteen-inch gun at a distance of a foot from one's head. For an instant it almost paralyzed us. Our house, which is new and well built, seemed to jump straight into the air about three inches, but at once settled back and everything was absolutely quiet. At first, as was natural, we supposed this to be a further earthquake shock, but when there was absolutely no further motion, we were at a loss to know how to account for it. Raising up in bed, I looked straight ahead of me out of a south window, and there I saw one of the grandest and most awe-inspiring sights it has ever been my lot to witness. It appeared that this mountain —Taal—was belching forth great masses of stones, mud and lava, actually white hot. Further watching developed the fact that a part of this grand display of fireworks was lightning, but even so, the reflection and glare of the volcano directly beneath was sufficient even to dim the brilliancy of the severe lightning. In as severe a storm as that of Monday morning, the lightning is usually clean cut and of a bluish white color, but tonight it was of a blue-red, if such can be imagined, and on account of the reflection was not nearly so distinct. We could hear no thunder.

When it is remembered that the Taal volcano is a distance of sixty miles as the crow flies from Manila, the size of the separate and distinct pieces of rocks, mud, etc., which we could see so distinctly from here as it poured forth, can scarcely be conjectured. Many of them must have been originally twenty or thirty feet in diameter, and frequently we could see them burst in mid-air, and report now has it that they were hurled a distance of eight miles, while at a distance of fifteen miles the ashes were so heavy on the foliage of trees as to break off the branches. In talking with a native at Tanauan, a distance of twelve to fifteen miles from the volcano, where I went on Tuesday night with a party, I was told that in that town hot, wet mud fell all about in sufficient quantity to cover the ground and break the branches of trees. Very naturally the natives in the vicinity are terror-stricken, and one would think that they would welcome an opportunity to leave the district. It is a curious fact, however, that the majority of them have some superstition about leaving home that is sufficiently strong to prevail against the most liberal offers of help, assistance, financial and otherwise, transportation and new homes, both of which are to be free of cost to them. This latter offer of free transportation for the natives and their families, and new houses which are also free, as well as larger wages for their work than they have ever earned before, comes from the Mindoro Developments company, the corporation which bought the friar lands a year or more ago for the purpose of developing the sugar industry in the islands. The offer, it may be stated, is no better than they have been making ever since their project was well under way, and from their own standpoint they believe that fre transportation and free homes for their laborers, paid for out of their treasury, mean to them money well spent. They do not make the offer as a philanthropic one in any sense, for everybody knows that they have been experiencing serious trouble in obtaining sufficient labor to carry on their project, but in such a time of general distress among the natives, most of whom have lost everything which they possessed, it would seem that their offer would be welcomed eagerly. Such, however, is not the case, and I mention the matter here just to show how strong is the native's prejudice against leaving his home, even under the present trying circumstances.

I have mentioned the display of fireworks as being grand and awe-inspiring in the highest degree. This is undoubtedly the case, but we are now receiving the news of the complete destruction of towns, villages and barios in the vicinity, and the number known to be killed and maimed for life is constantly increasing. The horrible condition of six of the refugees which I saw at Tanauan was pitiful to see, and I was told there by the district supervising school teacher that these victims were in excellent condition in comparison with numerous others whom he has seen in the three days and nights he had been doing relief work in the district, without sleep. The white residents of the stricken district have been doing heroic work in relieving the sufferings of the natives, and the Philippine constabulary, as well as various detachments of the army, have been untiring in their efforts in the same direction. This relief work, however, is of such magnitude and the travelling so difficult, that it is very slow, and it is quite probable that the exact number of deaths will never be known. The refugees as they are found are being taken first to the emergency hospitals, where they are made ready as far as possible for further travel, and are then transported to the established hospitals at Los Banos and Manila, and at these places are being given the best medical and surgical attendance that is available.

The Philippine assembly which closed its session at 5:15 yesterday morning, February 4th, failed to pass the commission's appropriation bill carrying $25,000 for the relief of their own people who are at present in such distress.

The entire island on which the volcano is situated is absolutely bare of vegetation of any kind, and this same condition prevails to a considerable distance inland from the lake in which this island is situated. Crops have been entirely destroyed, as well as domestic animals, leaving the inhabitants of the district who have escaped death or accident in a most deplorable condition as regards being able to take care of themselves and their families, while many of them are facing absolute starvation.

Manila has suffered none at all from the activity of the volcano. The earthquake shocks have not been severe enough here even to partially destroy or disfigure any buildings, and aside from rather a severe shock to their nerves, Manila people have been entirely undisturbed and are none the worse for the experience of the past week.

Before closing this epistle I want to say just a word about general conditions in the Philippine islands. These people want (or at least they think they do) independence. During the session of the assembly just closed the representatives of the people passed a resolution demanding immediate independence. They have done the same thing at every session of this assembly since it was first inaugurated. I frequently find myself wondering what would happen in event the United States should grant this demand, step down and out and leave the Philippines to the Filipinos. Beside the above the assembly passed one other measure worthy of note. Senor Gabaldon introduced a measure appropriating $100,000 for the erection of Bario schools, which measure was ratified and has become a law. This is most commendable. On the other hand, the assembly failed to act upon the general appropriation bill for carrying on the expenses of the government; they left their own people in dire distress without making any governmental provision for the expense of caring for them, even though the commission, composed mainly of Americans, had brought the matter to their attention in a formal way for their action, while Americans, Spaniards, English, Germans—in fact, people of all nations—are willing and ready to offer such assistance as is possible, both financially and in a personal way. If there were ever a time when a government should come to the rescue of its people, the present condition in the vicinity of the Taal volcano provides a most excellent opportunity. Usually so willing and eager to do something politically, especially in the matter of passing appropriation bills (notably that providing for the exorbitant expenses of a representative who was sent to a congress of the nations, the appropriation for which was made after it was known that the representative could not by any means of transportation arrive at his destination before the congress had adjourned) the assembly has failed even in the present calamity to provide in any way for its consequences. Fortunately the Hon. W. Cameron Forbes, our governor-general, has sufficient confidence in the commendation he is sure to receive to make a statement for publication in this morning's paper to the effect that in spite of the assembly's action, or rather non-action, the relief work will be prosecuted to any extent that may be necessary.

I might mention a number of evidences of irresponsibility on the part of the Philippine assembly, but really, "What's the use?" I only wonder what would happen if some morning they would wake up to find that the American government had stepped out.

JOHN R. HEGEMAN, President

INSURANCE SUPERINTENDENT'S REPORT

The New York Insurance Department has had the Company under examination, pursuant to law, for about fifteen months. After this examination the Superintendent of Insurance said:

THOROUGHNESS.—"It is thought that no Company of this character under the supervision of any Insurance Department in the United States has ever been so thoroughly examined by such a Department."

PAYMENT OF CLAIMS.—"The claims received averaged from 600 to 800 each working day; the percentage of rejections is small, being in 1909 less than one-half of one per cent."

CAREFUL INVESTMENTS.—"On an investment of $100,000,000 in real estate mortgages this Company now holds through foreclosure but one piece of realty."

INDUSTRIAL POLICIES AT COST.—"On this basis this Company, from all of its departments, added to its surplus in 1909, after setting aside in that year as a liability its dividends and bonuses for 1910, about $800,000; in other words, the volume of its business being considered, seems to have furnished insurance substantially at cost."

PROGRESSIVE MANAGEMENT.—The Department Report shows during the last five years:

Reduction in the ratio of expense to premium income.. 7.13%
Reduction in the ratio of lapse to issue.....10.36%
Reduction of cancellations in first year of insurance.. 8.92%

ORDINARY DEPARTMENT

In 1910 the Company wrote a larger amount of Ordinary business in the United States and Canada than any other company, by TWENTY MILLIONS!

In 1910 the Company placed Ordinary Insurance up to the Limit of the Law and was obliged to hold back hundreds of thousands of dollars of insurance by reason of the New York statute limiting amount in any one year.

MORAL: Get in early this year and avoid the rush at the end. Best plans; cheapest rates; all policies non-participating—that is, the money is not collected on promise of repayment in dividends, but is left in the pockets of the insured by reduction of premium.

INDUSTRIAL DEPARTMENT

OLD POLICIES.—A bonus has been declared to Industrial policy-holders amounting to nearly

SIX MILLIONS OF DOLLARS

payable in 1911 on Whole Life and Increasing Life and Endowment policies issued prior to 1907, which bonuses give reduction of premiums varying, according to period of persistence, from

EIGHT TO ONE HUNDRED PER CENT.

The Company added not one dollar to surplus at the end of 1910 out of income from Industrial policies.

NEW POLICIES.—The benefits on policies issued since January 1, 1907, are over

TWENTY PER CENT. GREATER than the benefits promised by policies issued previously.

In the last eighteen years it has declared

TWENTY-FIVE MILLIONS OF DOLLARS

in voluntary bonuses over and above all requirements of policies.

WELFARE WORK FOR POLICY-HOLDERS

Extracts from the Report of the Superintendent of Insurance of the State of New York.

"No summary of this examination of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company would be complete which omitted reference to certain agencies for social service which it has inaugurated and is now conducting."

"CAMPAIGN AGAINST TUBERCULOSIS.—Among the activities of this Company begun since the Armstrong investigation is its participation in the nation-wide crusade against tuberculosis. As to policy-holders, its work has thus far been confined to the dissemination of the literature of prevention and instruction; a work which its great Agency force and close contact with the industrial classes makes easy, as well as effective. As a matter of mere business economics, the Company's activities in this direction entitle it to the approval of the Department."

"NURSING SYSTEM.—About two years ago this Company inaugurated a system whereby trained nurses would, upon request, be sent to the homes of sick or bedridden policy-holders in its Industrial Department. . . . While this service has been but recently established, and while, therefore, the examiners are in some doubt as to its ultimate effectiveness either from the standpoint of saving the lives of policy-holders or minimizing unhealthy conditions, no one can make a personal investigation into what has already been done without being profoundly impressed with, not only the economic, but, more, the beneficent value of the work. Numerous cases where lives have been saved are already on record. Many instances showing improvement in home conditions due to the visits of the nurses are known."

LARGEST COMPANY IN THE WORLD

The largest amount of insurance in force of any Company in the world—$2,215,851,388, covering 11,288,054 policies.
In 1910 the Company made the largest gain in insurance in force of any Company in the world.

REAL THING IN HELMET HATS.

Just at present the latest spring style in men in Los Angeles is policemen—and their hats are the cause of it all.

In two weeks it is estimated that more than three hundred new helmets have been purchased by members of the Los Angeles force and of the three hundred scarcely a score have ever appeared at headquarters. When an investigation was started it wasn't hard to find "the woman in the case," or rather the women. In just one afternoon on Broadway, twenty-seven policemen's helmets disguised with ribbons and flowers were discovered.

Of course these are helmet hats that were not made from policement's helmets. But to get the real "chic" effect, fair women prefer the roofing effect found on the city's defenders, after it has been fixed with a few ribbons cornices and Eiffel Tower effects in flowers.—Los Angeles Herald.

FISHER TO OPEN A FAIR.

Chicago's Real Estate Exposition Invited the Secretary of the Interior.

(The Chicago Post.)

Walter L. Fisher, secretary of the interior, has been invited to open Chicago's first real estate show in the Coliseum April 28. Mr. Fisher is expected to be in Chicago at that time, and it is said he already has signified his intention of accepting the invitation.

A special exhibit is to be prepared by the forestry department at Washington for the real estate show and Chief Forester Graves has assured the committee that his department will prepare a special exhibit illustrating the proper care of trees and dooryard shrubs. Arrangements are also being made to get an extensive exhibit from Secretary Fisher's department, including displays from the bureau of mines, reclamation and geology.

It is expected that the navy department will show models of twelve of the United States' battle ships, while the postoffice department will illustrate the collection and distribution of mail. The government will furnish lecturers who will explain the exhibits to the exposition visitors.

A MOUSE BULLIED A COCK.

Mr. Bantam, Who Never Before Knew Fear, Gave Up the Corn.

(New York Herald.)

One of the clowns with the Barnum & Bailey circus, now playing in Madison Square Garden, has for a pet a bantam rooster which will fight anything from an ant to a locomotive, but when it comes to battling with a mouse he scratches and lies down for the full count of the referee.

Mr. Bantam was sleeping calmly in the cage with the baby giraffe in the menagerie the other afternoon when a mouse came nibbling around the cracked corn which the rooster had laid away for a rainy day. The gaze of the mouse and rooster met and the rooster took to the bars of the cage, but they were slippery and would not hold him. As he was losing his grip he flew onto the back of the baby giraffe, which is now a tiny thing only nine feet high, but not deeming himself far enough away from the mouse he took a few hops and alighted on the baby giraffe's head, where he perched with the air of a war strategist.

The mouse seemed to enjoy the performance and went on nibbling the corn, while the baby giraffe seemed possessed of the notion that she had recived a new Chantecler bonnet for Easter and wore it proudly.

GOVERNOR BASS, PROGRESSIVE.

New Hampshire's Executive Is Busy With Popular Legislation.

(The Outlook.)

A governor who, like Governor Wilson, of New Jersey, believes that the executive should be leader, is Hon. Robert Perkins Bass, of New Hampshire. The legislature of that state is called the general court. In Governor Bass' first message to the general court he called its members' attention to the fact that the platforms of both parties demand progressive legislation, hence that legislators are in honor bound to do all in their power to carry out each and every pledge made to the people of New Hampshire and indorsed by them. The session is now drawing to a close. Bills have been introduced to enact the promises made to the people. No one of the bills demanded by the people of New Hampshire has yet been passed, and the only one of these measures finally acted upon was defeated. Such a condition of things has aroused the indignation of New Hampshire citizens in general and of their governor in particular.

In a special message just issued he says that the lower house has passed seven of the ten important bills introduced, the other three being still under consideration; in contrast with this is the record of the senate, the upper house, which has not yet passed one of the reform measures. "In the main," says Governor Bass, "the platforms of the republican and democratic parties were in agreement, and the appeal of each party to the voters was that, by reason of its record and the character of its candidates, it could be relied upon better than the other party to enact into law the reforms in regard to which both agree. There is no doubt that the people of New Hampshire want the pledges of the platform redeemed." So far the senate has frustrated the popular will to establish a public service commission and a permanent tax commission to equalize taxation throughout the state and to make sure that certain corporations and companies shall bear their just share of taxation, to provide for workmen's compensation, and to provide for purity of elections. It is also interesting to note that Governor Bass has been one of the leaders in a movement included in the program of the National Progressive Republican league to provide for the election of delegates to national conventions under the district primary law; in this special message he again recommends it. The states of New Hampshire and New Jersey have as executive men who are also large enough to assume the full responsibility of leadership.

CRITICISES C. S. AND MILLINERY.

Boston, Mass., April 7.—Christian Science and woman's millinery were criticised today by Bishop Thomas Neeley, of New Orleans, who is presiding at the annual session of the New England Methodist Episcopal conference at the Harvard Street church in this city. Bishop Neeley's remarks came in the course of his customary morning address after the devotional service.

In referring to Christian Science, Bishop Neeley said:

"Christian Science is two per cent philosophy, three per cent religion and ninety-five per cent humbug."

The bishop then criticised sarcastically the big hats worn by women who attend church. Those hats, he said, should not be tolerated, for they obstruct the view of the people behind and interefer with the church services

Reliable Laxative for Old People Given Free

Life is so arranged that there is a close resemblance between infancy and old age. By this is not meant the mental but the physical faculties. For example, the organ of digestion is the most difficult thing the child has to contend with, as it is that of the old person.

When a person gets past middle life his power of digestion decreases, and continues to grow weaker, and for that reason so many old people are habitually constipated. They try everything recommended from hot water to strong cathartics without avail. Now, if there is any one thing a person of advanced years should not take it is a cathartic. The bowels cannot stand it. What is required is a mild, gentle, non-griping liquid laxative.

You have it exactly as required in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which stands today, after a generation, as the ideal remedy for old people, women, children and all others who require a mild, natural remedy. We could give the names of thousands of old people who use nothing else but Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, among them Mr. A. A. Lewis of Bentonville, Ark., and Mr. Enos Gilpin of Danville, Ill.

They first sent to Dr. Caldwell for a free sample bottle, which every reader is invited to do, and then, having tested it and found it satisfactory, they bought it of their druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle. Their words of public praise should prompt the present reader to at least send for a sample bottle. It costs nothing. Results are absolutely guaranteed or money will be refunded.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over forty years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell Building, Monticello, Ill.

BOWSER'S DOG DAY

Homeless Cur Appeals to Him and Is Taken In.

MRS. BOWSER WON'T HAVE IT

Samuel Raves About Transmigration of Souls—Canine Clears the Table of Food and Tackles Benefactor, Who Calls Cop to Bounce the Brute.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.]

HALF an hour after dinner the other evening Mr. Bowser had an errand at the drug store, and on returning he said to Mrs. Bowser:

"At the gate as I was coming in I met a big dog, and I declare if he didn't look up at me in such an appealing way that I almost took him for an unfortunate man."

"Some dog lost probably," was the reply.

"But why did he look at me in such an appealing way?"

"He may have expected you to find his home for him."

"Yes, he might, or—or"—

Mr. Bowser didn't finish, but fell into a train of thought lasting for five minutes. Then he walked down the hall and opened the door and looked out. Then he tiptoed back to the sitting room and whispered:

"He's right out there yet, and he's watching the house."

"Well, what of it?" queried Mrs. Bowser.

"See here, woman, there's something in this. I was only one of a hundred persons passing to and fro, and yet that dog came and appealed to me. Why? He sits by our gate instead of going away. Why? He's looking at the front door as if expecting me out any minute. Why?"

"How can I tell what a dog thinks?"

"But this dog. I tell you there's something mighty queer in the affair, and I can explain it in only one way."

HOWLS BY THE DOG.

Yes, sir, I think I've got the keynote to it. Mrs. Bowser, you know I believe in the theory of transmigration."

"And lots of other things just as foolish."

"You can't prove them so. Here is a strange dog that was waiting at our gate for me. He welcomes me. He looks me in the face. He appeals to me. Has the soul of some person I have known in the past entered into his body?"

"Nonsense!"

"Does he know that my name is Bowser?"

"Twaddle!"

"Is he homeless and hungry and does he expect me to take him in? I wish you could have seen the appeal in his eyes. Those eyes reminded me of the eyes of some man I have known in the past. Yes, they surely did."

"Were they the eyes of the man who got you to invest $200 in a hair dye?"

Ninety-nine times out of a hundred Mr. Bowser would have risen up at such a remark as that and made the slates on the roof rattle with his language, but on this occasion he quietly replied:

"He came to me—to me of all others. Hush! I think I hear him at the door. I am going to take that dog in and be good to him. When I die, for anything we can tell to the contrary, my soul may enter the body of a dog. Your soul may do the same thing."

"I want no vagrant dogs in here," protested Mrs. Bowser. "They are always covered with fleas. And who can tell that they are not on the point of hydrophobia? Tell the cook to throw him out a bone and let him go away."

The Cur Let In.

"Turn an old friend away with a bone!" he exclaimed. "I'm not that kind of a man. He shall find a warm heart here. I'll let him in at the basement door, and then—then I'll even try to talk to him."

"And I'll take the cat and go upstairs. When you and your old friend have got through with your banquet and your reminiscences let me know and I'll come down."

Mrs. Bowser disappeared upstairs with the cat under her arm, and Mr. Bowser descended to the basement and opened the door and uttered a whistle. The dog was at hand in an instant. His size was about that of a yearling calf, and his breed might have been anything. He was shambling and rambling and gaunt. He entered the lower hall with a rush and made two circuits of the dining room in five seconds. The cook was still at her dishes, and she yelled out and fled for the stairs.

The dog had been welcomed. He realized it and felt at home. He began gobbling down everything eatable in sight. He ate olives and bread and butter and roast beef and cranberry sauce and mince pie with equal gusto. All things looked good to him. He not only ate, but he leaped upon the table and stood among the dishes to do it. Mr. Bowser tried to call him down, but he got such a menacing growl in return that he tried it but once. For a quarter of an hour that dog devoted himself to the banquet board, and then he ceased to eat because there was no more to devour. It was then that Mr. Bowser patted his head and said:

"Old man, have I known you in some other shape or form at some time?"

The dog sat up and howled dismally.

"By George, but he understands me! Who were you, doggie, when you were alive before?"

Canine's Right of Way.

The dog made three circuits of dining room and kitchen, knocking over everything in his way, and then he made a rush upstairs.

"Here—here—hold on!" cried Mr. Bowser, but he didn't obey. He went through parlor and sitting room and library, jumping and bumping and barking, and he had just pulled the spread off the piano and a couple of vases with it when Mrs. Bowser called down from the next flight:

"Mr. Bowser, will you tell me what on earth is going on down there!"

"It's—it's this durned dog!" he called back. "Look out—he's coming up!"

"But I never knew him when his soul was in some other body."

At sound of Mrs. Bowser's voice the dog made a rush and almost caught her before she could enter a bedroom and shut the door. Then he sat down and howled.

"Look here, now, but this won't do, you know!" admonished Mr. Bowser as he stood at the foot of the stairs. "I thought at first that the soul of some old friend of mine might have transmigrated into your doggoned body, but I begin to think"—

And with an awful roar the dog came rushing down upon him—not in anger, but with joy unconfined. Mr. Bowser was knocked flat on his back, and the animal jumped over and over him and barked his gratitude.

"By thunder, but out you go!" was hurled at him as Mr. Bowser struggled to his feet.

Policeman Is Summoned.

But he didn't go. He got between the transmigrationist and the door and emitted such a cold blooded series of growls that the gooseflesh was started at once.

"What's he doing now?" asked Mrs. Bowser over the banisters.

"He's ready to chaw me up if I move a finger."

"But soothe him."

"Soothe nothing! His eyes shine like glass!"

"Can't you remember what old friend's soul may have passed into the dog?"

"No! Say, something's got to be done. By jingo, but I was all kinds of a fool for letting him in. Raise one of the windows and call a policeman. The brute is looking right at my Adam's apple!"

It fortunately happened that a patrolman was half a block away, and he came sauntering down at the call. When he found what was wanted he ascended the steps and opened the door. Mr. Bowser jumped, the dog jumped, and the officer jumped, and next instant the three were rolling down the steps. They got untangled at the bottom, and the dog took to fight, while the officer got up and shouted:

"Bowser, you're the biggest fool in town, and you ought to get a crack on the head!"

When it was all over the door was shut, and when Mr. Bowser had got over breathing like a wind broken horse Mrs. Bowser asked:

"Well?"

"We separate after breakfast forever!" he tragically exclaimed as he pointed a long finger at her.

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY

Grew a Full Growth of Hair on a Bald Head

Here's the Proof

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY, a true Hair Tonic and Restorer, removes dandruff in a few days, stops hair falling in one week, and starts a new growth in a month.

ATTACKS ON GOOD MEN.

I very seriously question whether, on the whole, we do not suffer in our public life quite as much from unjust assault upon upright public servants as from failure effectively to assault corruption and its exponents. Many newspapers and many magazines, sometimes because they are controlled by the special interests, and quite as often because they are seeking to capitalize sensationalism and to turn to commercial advantages the literature of exposure, have done, and are doing, all they can to degrade public life by practicing every species of reckless sensational and hysterical mendacity at the cost of reputable public servants. It makes not the slightest difference whether this form of falsehood is practiced because the writer is hired, directly or indirectly, by some special interest, or whether he is merely recklessly bent on gaining money or notoriety by sensatinal slander; it makes no difference whether he is a cultivated man actuated by sour envy, or a crude fanatic who, in the name of conscience, is willing to perpetuate outrages upon conscience; and, finally, it makes little difference as to what particular class of public servant he assails. The infamy lies in the deed itself.—Theodore Roosevelt.

A NIGHT AT DOLBY'S

Deacon's Wife Hears Gossip About Her Husband.

PLANS TO LEAVE THIS WORLD

He Played Checkers and Swallowed Cider Instead of Nursing a Lodge Brother—Mrs. Dolby Talks of Dying. Deacon Reads and Winds the Clock.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, 1910, by Associated Literary Press.]

DEACON DOLBY pushed back from the supper table the other evening, with the remark that he guessed he'd go down cellar and sort over the potatoes and bring the bad ones up, and Mrs. Dolby lighted and handed him a candle. There wasn't a cloud on her sky. He hadn't reached the bottom step when she began singing "I've Got a Home Over There," and she sang with great gusto.

For an hour the deacon was busy at the potato bin and with his thoughts. He had found a bushel of specked ones, and he put them in a basket and toted them upstairs. Mrs. Dolby had long finished clearing away the supper things, and he expected to find her knitting or patching. She wasn't doing either. She was lying at full length on the floor on her back, arms stretched out and teeth clinched.

The deacon did not rush things. He set down his basket, blew out the candle and walked over to the sink and washed and wiped his hands. When this was done he put a couple of sticks of wood in the stove and then went into the sitting room and brought out a book entitled "Every Man His Own Lawyer." It was a book he had had for five years, and the reading of it had saved him scores of lawsuits. Paying not the slightest attention to the object on the floor, he elevated his feet to the hearth of the stove and began reading.

At the end of ten minutes there was a sigh behind him.

At the end of five more there was a feeble moan.

No response from the deacon. He was reading that the penalty for cutting off the tail of a cow belonging to another man was from three to six months in the county jail.

A movement of Mrs. Dolby's right foot, then a movement of her left foot.

And then the deacon read that it was the law in almost every state to impose $50 fine and three months' imprisonment on any person who threw a dog down a well, no matter whether it was his well and his dog or not.

Then Mrs. Dolby sat up and looked around her.

No more on the deacon's part. That book of laws told him that stealing a lamb came under the same head and punishment as stealing a sheep. This was because the lamb, if not stolen, would grow to be a sheep some day.

"Samuel Dolby, am I in heaven?"

The shove from Mrs. Dolby as she struggled up and took a chair near him.

The question needed no answer. She had only to look around to see that she was right in her own kitchen. Indeed, the roller towel was brushing the back of her head, and there are no roller towels up there. Angels never have to wash their hands and faces.

Mrs. Garret Tells on Dolby.

"Samuel, while you were down cellar Mrs. Garret came in. You know the sort of woman she is. Wild horses couldn't drag a word of gossip out of her. It was a whole year after the California earthquake before she would mention a word about it to her closest friend. She came in to borrow an egg, but I saw at once that she had something on her mind. I begged and coaxed and promised, and she finally told me something. She never'd told me in the world except that she knew I was being deceived and thought it a shame. Samuel, are you listening?"

He was and he wasn't. He was listening, and yet he was reading in that book that a man driving a hog along a public highway is responsible for all the damage that hog does, even to murder. A hog, thus being morally and legally irresponsible for his actions, always acted as mean as he could.

"One night two months ago," continued Mrs. Dolby as she began to sob, "you said you had to sit up all night with a sick brother of your Odd Fellow lodge. I didn't make one single objection, though I was scart to stay alone. In the morning when you come home you said the brother was better. Samuel Dolby, where were you that night—where—where?"

And Mrs. Dolby stood up and pointed a finger at him that almost touched his nose. It was dramatic; it was tragic. But did Deacon Dolby lose his nerve and begin to stutter some excuse? Never! His placidity was that of a summer lake as he read that if a man offers to help another man to hitch up a horse and he is kicked and injured by that horse he cannot recover damages, no matter what the color of the horse or what church the man belongs to.

Checkers and Cider.

"I will tell you where you were," with the finger still pointed. "There was no sick brother. You and Elder Comstock had been blowing around for a year as to which was the best at checkers. You were in the back room of Snyder's grocery all that night playing checkers, and you played for the cider too. Every time you finished a game you drank a glass of cider. Deacon Dolby—Deacon Dolby—think of the shame of it! Think of an elder and a deacon playing checkers all night! Think of your lying to your wives! Think of your drinking hard cider! Think of your coming home next morning and taking the pump for a cow and dodging it!"

There it was, but the deacon never as much as winked over it. He could have told his wife that he beat the elder seven games out of ten and thus settled the championship of the village for years to come, but why explain? Besides, he was interested in reading that under the law you cannot knock the horns off your neighbor's cow when finding her in your cornfield. Such action is mayhem and carries a severe penalty with it.

Mrs. Dolby sat down and sobbed for five minutes, during which time the old kitchen clock ticked in its most solemn manner and an enterprising rooster in the neighborhood indulged in a crow of defiance to other roosters. Then she rose up and entered the pantry and came out with a piece of broken glass and the hammer in her hands. The glass was laid in the sink and pounded in fine pieces, and the mass scooped into a teacup and some milk poured on to it. Then she took the cup in hand and turned to the deason and said:

Dose For Death.

"They say it's awful to die by pounded glass, but I've no arsenic or strychnine in the house, and die I must. You can't expect me to live with you after this. Let's talk about the funeral for a minit, Samuel. Don't go to any great expense about it. I've never been anything but a poor worm of the dust, and I can't expect folks to make a great time over my remains. Jest a shaller grave and a cheap tombstone, Samuel, and I don't expect you to weep and take on. You won't, will you?"

Deacon Dolby utterly refused to pledge himself. The book he was reading said that a pledge or promise to be valid in law must be made before a witness, but he was taking no chances.

"You'll marry after the year is out, won't you?" was asked.

Neither yes nor no from him.

"And you'll lie to your second wife, just as you have lied to me?"

He might, but he wasn't going to say so.

"Well, I'll die now, Samuel! Good-by to you! You haven't used me right, but I shan't let my ghost haunt you."

Mrs. Dolby had raised the cup to her lips when the clock suddenly ceased to tick. She lowered the cup, looked all around and then said:

"Why, Samuel, I must have forgot to wind the clock last night. It's funny, isn't it?"

The deacon closed the book, rose up to yawn and stretch and then wound the clock with his own hand and said:

"There's the speckled taters in that basket there, and we'd better go to bed!"

A MINISTER BROUGHT HIS SON.

English Was Taught the Argentinian's Boy Before Spanish.

(New York Herald.)

Senor Don Romulo S. Naon, the newly appointed minister from the Argentine Republic to Washington, who is said to be the youngest diplomat of his rank, arrived on board the Amerika. Senor Naon is accompanied by his son, Romulo S. Naon, jr., 8 years old, who is one of a family of six children. The minister's wife and the other children will go from Buenos Ayres to Washington two months hence.

Succeeding Senor Don Epifania Portela, who has been sent to Italy, Senor Naon enters on his new post with an experience in public life considered by many to be remarkable for a man of his age, which is 36 years. He is expert in constitutional and international law, and has held many government offices. He founded the Normal High school in the Argentina capital and is an officer in financial institutions. The minister's son speaks excellent English. Senor Naon explained that English was taught to his children before they were allowed to learn Spanish.

"GOING SOME."

The recently appointed chief justice is a pretty good story-teller. He was formerly a Louisiana sugar planter, and this is one of the stories attributed to him:

Two negroes on a Louisiana plantation became involved in a row with another Ethiopian who was handy with a gun. The two started to run about the time the bad man began to shoot. The fleeing ones had proceeded about a hundred yards when the following dialogue occurred:

"Sam, ye hear dat bullet?"

"Yes, I hearn it—two times."

"How you mean two times?" asked the questioner, as he quickened his pace.

"I hearn dat bullet once when it passed me, and den anudder time when I passed it," jerked out Sam between short breaths.—New York Tribune.

PEOPLE buy bargain refrigerators who would not buy bargain pianos—yet the refrigerator is far the more important of the two. A poor piano can do no more than offend your ears. A poor refrigerator may affect the health of the entire household. Odors and moisture accumulate in it; foods spoil quickly. You cannot afford to buy an ordinary refrigerator. It is almost as cheap in the beginning—and it is a good deal cheaper in the long run—to have one of the famous

McCRAY Refrigerators

—the refrigerators with the patented construction that insures a constant circulation of fresh, dry air to every part of every food chamber. Any refrigerator will keep foods cold; but there is no refrigerator that will keep them fresh as long as a McCray will do it. That is why it is used by the Government—in the Capitol, in the Pure Food Laboratories, in the Congressional Library, on battleships. That is why it is used in most of the excluse clubs and fine residences throughout the country. That is why it is the refrigerator you should have in your home.

FRENCH WINE GROWERS BURNING PREMIER IN EFFIGY.

EFFIGY.

Great excitement has been shown in the Aube district of France owing to the new law which deprived the vineyards there of the right to be included in the champagne districts of France. Desperate measures were threatened by the men, who declared that they have been "betrayed." A monster demonstration was organized when 15,000 wine growers marched into Bar-sur-Aube to the accompaniment of bands and burned the effigy of Mons. Monis, the new cries of jubilation. It will be seen that the word "poor" was placed before the inscription "French Republic," painted on the building.

Metropolitan Life's Great Showing

WROTE MORE ORDINARY BUSINESS INC 1910 THAN ANY OTHER COMPANY BY TWENTY MILLIONS.

Company Is Highly Commended by the Superintendent of Insurance for Its Progressive Management.

Of unusual interest in view of criticisms which have in the past frequently been made of so-called "Industrial Insurance," in the recent report of the Honorable William H. Hotchkiss, Superintendent of Insurance of New Yor. Superintendent Hotchkiss' examiners have in the last sixteen months made an exhaustive investigation of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, and the report embodies their conclusions.

Incidentally, the report brings out other interesting information regarding the company. It will probably come as a surprise to many of our readers that the Metropolitan is not only the leading company in Industrial insurance, but that during the last year it wrote practically $150,000,000 Ordinary insurance, the maximum permitted by the New York law. For a company that has been known in the past primarily as an Industrial company, this is a remarkable showing. If business written in foreign countries other than Canada be excluded, the Metropolitan wrote $20,000,000 more Ordinary insurance than its nearest competitor. There are at present over $700,000,000 Ordinary insurance in force, and, including Industrial insurance, over $2,215,000,000. In fact the company was compelled to stop issuing policies for which application was made during the last days of the year in order to keep within the law.

Mildly speaking, the report is decidedly commendatory. In an impartial and judicial manner, Superintendent Hotchkiss expresses his profound conviction that Industrial insurance as practiced by the Metropolitan has had the welfare of the policyholders only in mind, and that the officers of the company have bent every effort to cheapen the cost of such insurance to reduce lapses and in general to safeguard at every turn the interests of their upwards of seven millions of policyholders. The superintendent writes almost admiringly of the reduction and management expense of nearly 7 per cent and in the lapse rate of approximately 10 per cent. Tersely stated, Mr. Hotchkiss shows that insurance for the masses is given practically at cost, and that the dividends to stockholders, limited by the by-laws of the company to $140,000, were insignificant when compared with annual premium receipts of $70,000,000.

Under separate headings, Superintendent Hotchkiss discusses other important topics, such as compensation to agents, payments of claims, bonus distributions and concessions. Nothing more clearly indicates the character of the service which the company renders to its policyholders than the unadorned statement that of the total claims presented for payment only one-quarter of one per cent was rejected; that the company will voluntarily return to policyholders in 1911 over $5,700,000 in cash bonuses, making a total of over $25,000,000 thus returned, without any obligation of any kind on the part of the company to do so.

It is stated that 18 per cent of the deaths on which the company pays claims are from tuberculosis. As we view it, if this excessive and unnecessarily high mortality can be reduced, it benefits not only the company but all of its policyholders. In the final analysis, it means cheaper insurance. The same idea underlies the visiting nurse service which at present is given to over 4,000,000 policyholders and which is rapidly being extended. The supreme court of New York, in rendering its decision permitting the company to erect a sanitarium for employes, voiced a new doctrine which will become historic, when it stated that a corporation not only had the right but that it was its duty to look after its sick employes.

Aeroplanes and balloons were exported last year from the United Kingdom to the value of $274,000. Very few have been exported from the United States.

HOW ENGLISH WOMEN GAMBLE.

The Turf and Markets Interest Her as Much as Bridge.

(London Answers.)

A few years ago Father Bernard Vaughan preached a course of sermons on the mania for bridge which was fast invading smart society. As a matter of fact, bridge is only one of the many forms of gambling in which the up-to-date society woman indulges. Her field of operations includes the stock exchange and the turf, as well as the bridge clubs and the tables of Monte Carlo and Dieppe.

The following is a fair sample of how a member of the "smart" gambling set spends her day. In the morning after a careful perusal of the sporting news in the daily paper she telephones to her bookmaker, backing what she considers the likely winners of the day. This finished, she either gets through to her stock broker or else motors into the city for a personal interview with him. Nowadays, many society women have a very shrewd business instinct. It was the great women of Mayfair and Belgravia who were the first to reap a profit from the rubber boom of last year. After lunch, our fair gambler turns in to her card club, where she will play bridge, or its latest development, auction bridge, or baccarat, usually at home or at a friend's house.

What is known as the "card instinct" seems to be more strongly developed in women than in men. At any rate, the proficiency at bridge of many prominent women of society is astonishing. At the present moment the best bridge player in London is the wife of a well known guardsman. She is generally supposed to make $7,500 a year at bridge, and this result is due entirely to skill.

A curious feature of the gambling spirit in society is the way bridge tournaments have taken the place of bazars. At these tournaments the entrance money and a percentage of the stakes is devoted to some charitable object. A fund organized by the lord mayor last spring largely profited by one of these tournaments.

THE LESSER EVIL.

Gresham college in 1719 was the scene of a famous serio-comic duel between two celebrated doctors, Dr. Mead and Dr. Woodward, both of whom were lecturers at the college. While walking down Bishopsgate street one morning they quarreled over some medical question and adjourned to the square of the college to fight it out with swords. Woodward fell, wounded in several places, whereupon Mead magnanimously said, "Take thy life." "Anything but your physic," hissed back the chagrined Woodward ere he swooned away.—London Chronicle.

THE BIBLE IS IN VERNACULAR.

The Rev. Prof. Milligan, D. D., lecturing before the Glasgow branch of the Egyptian Research Students' association, referred to the papyrus fragments recently recovered from the ruins of houses and temples, and especially from the rubbish heaps on the outskirts of old towns and villages in Egypt. Thanks to the dry climate, these had remained uninjured, and the result was that we had now a very large number of original documents or papers extending from several hundred years before Christ far down into Byzantine times. It was proved conclusively, the lecturer said, that the Greek in which our New Testament was originally written was the "common" language or vernacular of the day.—London Globe.

A TYPOGRAPHICAL ERROR.

"Now, William," the old farmer said to his new apprentice, "I want thee to mind what I do say to thee, to be sharp and attentive and to delay not in carrying out my instructions."

"Ay, ay, zur," replied William.

"First, now, I want thee to take out the old white mare and have her shod."

"Ay, ay, zur," said William, and departed.

He returned two hours later and the old farmer questioned him.

"Thee has not been quick, lad," he said, reprovingly, "but if thee hast done thy work as I ordered thee thou shalt be forgiven. Didst thee have the mare shod, as I telled thee?"

"Ay, ay, zur!" replied William, beaming. "Didst thou not hear the gun? I shot her myself and I've just buried her."—Answers.

SCOUTS TO KNOW HOBO SIGNS.

Daniel C. Beard, national scout commissioner of the Boy Scouts of America, is teaching the boys the secret signs of the yegg fraternity, so that the boys may know them and tell what the mystical marks on fences, houses and other buildings mean. There are signs indicating whether there is a dog in the house, whether the housewife is kind, and whether it is easy to rob the house. If the signs are dangerous the boys can rub them off and warn the police. All this means that the secrecy of the hobos will be destroyed.—Washington Post.

NEW YORK'S RETIRED SENATOR MEETS UP WITH HIS SUCCESSOR.

SENATOR O'GORMAN AND CHAUNCEY M. DEPEW

NORSEMAN GUARDS THE FLEET.

The Santa Maria Is the Home of a Modern Christopher Columbus.

(Chicago News.)

Chicago has a modern Christopher Columbus. That is not his name. Far from it. Soren Peterson's place of abode is identical with the quarters of Columbus during the history making voyage that led to the discovery of America; his bed is a replica of the one on which Columbus most likely lay awake o' nights wondering whether, after all, they might not sail over the edge of things and go tumbling, keel over topsail, into bottomless space.

Peterson is the custodian of the Nina, Pinta and Santa Maria, the little fleet patterned after the original caravels, fitted out by King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella, which were sent by the Spanish government to the world's fair, and which since then have been moored in the lagoon at Jackson park. The quaint little boats, with their big high after decks, are furnished as in the fifteenth century days when Columbus commanded, and the cabin which was used by Columbus is now the abode of Peterson. He is captain, crew and all the rest, and he "sleeps on the job."

In the long ago, when Columbus was pleading with King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella to fit out the caravels for the voyage of discovery, the ancestors of Soren Peterson, rugged Norsemen, were sailing their sturdy boats far into the uncertain west. Maybe his ancient progenitors were among those dimly outlined characters to whom certain historians give credit for finding the new world's northern shore before the time that the Genoese sailor with his little fleet of Spanish boats was swinging in sight of land in 1492.

CULTURE OR BUST.

A school teacher instructed a pupil to purchase a grammar, and received next day, this note from the child's mother:

"I do not desire for Lulu shall engage in grammar, as I prefer her to ingage in useful studies and can learn her how to spoke and write properly myself. I have went through two grammars myself and I can't say the did me no good. I prefer her ingage in german and drawing and vocal music on the piano."—Everybody's Magazine.

Where Am I Going?

All form a circle and dance around, except one outside, who has a small bell. The dancing lasts only a minute and when the circle stops the one outside rings the bell behind some one in it, saying:

Oh, dear Mistress Gray (Master if a boy),
I've lost my way!
Can you tell me where I'm going?
It's very late,
And I have to wait
While the cold north wind is blowing.

The one behind whom the bell was rung, who has turned around to face the speaker, says, "Come in and choose a guide," meantime lifting one arm with the arm of the next person, so the outsider can enter the circle.

The outsider goes up to some one and takes him or her by the hand, the rest dancing around the two, with hands held up as high as possible. The two in the circle try to run out through the same opening, and when they have succeeded the first player joins the ring, while the guide takes the bell.

Scaring the Lizard.

Some caterpillars have the power of fixing themselves by their two hind feet to a twig and stretching themselves out as straight as a rod, so that, being in color much like the twig of a tree on the leaves of which they feed, they are not readily observed. The muscular power required for this position of rest is great, and the number of muscles is found to be 4,000. When this fails to deceive a lizard about to devour it the caterpillar will lift its head to frighten its enemy and act like an angry snake, but gradually the lizard comes nearer and nearer with watchful eyes and finally attacks and devours its victim.

ONE WOOD LIGHT READY FOR SHOW

Tungsten System Was Put on Exhibition for the First Time.

CROWDS LOOK AT IT

One Wood magnetite lamp will be on display tonight at Berry and Calhoun streets and people will be afforded an opportunity to view it and compare it with the tungsten system which was turned on last night.

The post for the Wood light was set up this morning and the connections made ready to put it into service tonight. The lights will be about fourteen feet above the street and the lamps will be of the most improved kind turned out by the Fort Wayne Electric works.

Crowds went down in front of the Anthony hotel last night to look at the five posts that were put up there yesterday. There were five lights on each of the posts and the effect was most pleasing. They were kept burning as long as they attracted the attention of the people who are interested in securing a good system for the down town streets.

Although the board of public works has extended an invitation to other concerns to put up posts and lights there is little probability that any of them will take advantage of it and the choice will be between the two that can be seen in operation tonight.

THE GIFT OF GAB.

You can talk about your highbrows,
Your folks of proud degree,
Your writers and your poets
Who charm society,
But when it comes to mixing
I fear I'll have to blab
And give the chap the laurels
Who has the gift of gab.

The business man's a wonder—
He makes the city great—
And the noble politician
Is sure to save the state,
But when it comes to artists,
Who sweet preferment grab,
Commend me to the fellows
Who have the gift of gab.

In matters sentimental
The silent man and slow
Must cut a sorry figure
If courting he would go.
Distraught, he seeks her presence,
As awkward as a crab,
And finds she loves the fellow
Who has the gift of gab.

What boots it to be worthy
And read your title clear
To a working reputation
Three hundred days a year?
Mere virtue leaves us stranded,
As helpless as a slab.
The world gives gifts and honor
To the chap that has the gab.

Small Sheep.

The smallest sheep in the world is the tiny Breton sheep. It is too small to be profitable to raise, for it cannot have much wool, and, as for eating, a hungry man could eat almost a whole sheep at a single meal.

It takes its name from the part of France where it is most common. It is the dearest little pet imaginable. It is very gentle and because it is so tiny is not such a nuisance about the house as the famous lamb that belonged to the little girl named Mary.

Any little girl could find room in her lap for a Breton sheep. One of its peculiarities is its extreme sympathy with the feelings of its human friends when it has been brought up in the house as a pet. If its master or mistress is pleased about anything the little sheep will frisk about with every sign of joy. On the contrary, if tears are shed the sympathetic sheep will utter the most pitiful "ba-a" ever heard.

Oil on Troubled Waters.

The German steamer Hans Menzel was wrecked in the north Atlantic ocean on a passage that had begun at New Orleans at the end of January. Waves were running high, and it would have been sure death to try to leave in small boats. The sailors had almost given up hope of being saved when the British steamer Suram came up. There was help at hand, but still it was impossible to transfer the men from the wrecked vessel to the other because of the great waves. The impossibility did not last long. The Suram is an oil steamer, and the captain had oil brought up from the hold and scattered over the water between the two boats. The waves were stilled instantly. They heaved and swelled, but they could not break as they had broken before, and the shipwrecked men were carried to the Suram with no danger.

Children Like These Scotch Puffs

This is a recipe for making Scotch puffs that most children eat with greater delight than they do doughnuts—yet, strange to say, no more healthful food for them can be found. Put in a saucepan a tea cup of water, 1 tablespoonful of sugar, ½ teaspoonful of salt and a tablespoonful of butter; when boiling add sufficient Cream of Barley to make it leave the sides of saucepan. Stir in one by one the yolks of 4 eggs. Drop a teaspoonful of this at a time in boiling lard. Fry to a light brown. Serve with syrup or honey.

These Scotch puffs are highly nutritious, as Cream of Barley contains a larger percentage of gluten than almost any other food, and gluten is the element necessary to make blood, bone and muscle. It is sold in 15-cent packages in almost any grocer's.

Cream of Barley makes an ideal breakfast dish when cooked as a simple porridge. It is easily digested, and barley in different forms is prescribed for the sick and ailing from childhood to old age. [illegible] not only for the invalid, but for the strong and robust, for it is so substantial that any person can make a hearty meal with Cream of Barley alone.

Good Luck Alloyed.

A howl from the upper story brought the mother to her feet. Rude laughter intermingled with the howling, and the duet threatened to become a trio, with the bucolic bread earner trying to earn bread in his study.

"Mummy, mummy," cried Elsie, meeting her on the stairs, "please come up and spank Dick."

"What has he been doing?" asked her mother.

"We was playing at weddings," sobbed Elsie, "and Dick threw rice all over me."

"But you mustn't cry over that," soothed the fond parent. "Rice brings good luck to the bride, you know."

Little Elsie opened her eyes wide as she held out her sopping pinafore and asked:

Needed It.

In the Yakima valley, Washington, where the big apples are grown and bearing orchards sell at $1,000 an acre, rain is scarce. Irrigation is practiced everywhere. But now and then during the growing season a light rain will fall for a few minutes. These rains are highly prized, for irrigating water is measured closely and served to each user in proportion to his acreage.

Last summer a fruit grower who owns forty acres of orchard was rejoicing in one of these precipitations of moisture when one of his hired men entered the house.

"Why don't you stay in out of the rain?" inquired the fruit grower.

"Oh, that's all right," replied the man. "A little dew like that doesn't bother me a bit. I can work right along just the same."

"That isn't the point!" exclaimed the rancher. "Next time it rains you come into the house. I want that water on the land."—Youth's Companion.

A Wonderful House Cleaner For 25 Cents

Is the latest invention of Dr. Young, the sanitary expert. Housewives are just going wild over it. The first day this little article was offered for sale in this city, women who saw it demonstrated were so eager to get one, that the clerks could not wait on them fast enough.

Young's Dust Absorbent Cloth, which is chemically treated, is a wonderful success, because it positively picks up and holds every speck of dust and dirt it comes in contact with. By using this article once a week, your house will be much cleaner than if you used the ordinary duster or rag every day; and not only that, but you actually get rid of the dust and dirt instead of scattering it without even soiling your hands.

Young's Dust Absorbent Cloth will dust anything, and gives a high polish to furniture and pianos without leaving one scratch. It will also clean silk, velvet, derby hats, windows and glassware without leaving any lint. It will last three or four months and only costs 25c. Broom Cover for cleaning floors, walls and ceilings, made of the same material as the duster, with a 4-ply base, 35c. Imitations are inferior and will not give satisfaction, but the original will, and is known by our star, name and guarantee. A. M. YOUNG & CO., 27 Illinois St., Chicago.

The Beat of the Year

By Robert Livingston Beecher

COPYRIGHT, 1904, BY THE PEARSON PUBLISHING CO.

"One Sunday—it was the first Sunday, by the way, after my first interview with the old man re the Heiress—I was over in Long Island City and discovered my lovable lady sitting right opposite me in a street car. At least she looked to me as if she were lovable and could be loving, and so, with the best intentions in the world, I followed her home, at a discreet distance, needless to say, and made a note of where she lived. Subsequently I learned, through discreet inquiries, that she was an orphan and that she worked in a shirt factory not far away, so what did I do but start for Canada, switch off to Long Island City, doff my identity, take on the name and status of one Tom Greening, and go to work in the same factory at the princely honorarium of $15 every six days.

"Laugh at me if you want to. I was hard hit in the neighborhood of the mitral valve from the first and after I had had myself introduced to her, I was harder hit than ever. In fact, I was so hard hit I seemed to have had the whole cardiac region knocked out of me, valves and all. Being in love, Jack—real, honest Injun love, I mean—is a queer feeling! Have you ever experienced it? But there, I mustn't become idiotic.

"Where did I live, you ask? In a small hall-bedroom in a boarding-house presided over by a widowed lady, who didn't exactly seem to grieve over the demise of her worser half, who, I believe, passed on in a blaze of what I gathered was alcohol; it certainly wasn't glory. At any rate, I lived cheaply, saved my money, worked hard, learned what it was to have honest sweat on my forehead and honest callouses on my hands, and above all, learned that the lady of the trolley car was as lovable as they make them, certainly in this world. Mars or Venus may produce a finer type, but I'll have to be shown.

"So that much was settled. She was lovable. Now, was she loving—or, rather, could she be induced—no, I won't use that word, for reasons which will be obvious later—could she come naturally to love me? And right there my troubles began.

"I had no suspicion of it at first and she allowed me to call on her at her home several times before I learned that she was engaged to a fellow-workman of mine in the factory, a young man of about my own age, John Joyce, by name. He's not a bad fellow, either; at any rate, I'll give him the benefit of the doubt, and I don't know that he has been any more jealous of me than I would have been of him if our positions had been reversed.

"Well, what was I to do when I learned about Joyce? I suppose some strict constructionists, as John C. Calhoun would have said, will rule that I should have promptly raised my lance and my vizor and retired from the field. I actually thought of doing so myself for a time—I assure you I did, old boy—but when it came time to do the retiring, I simply couldn't. Don't chide me, Jack. You haven't seen the girl, you know.

"Not that I did anything that was really dishonorable, I trust and believe. I did try to make my admiration a little less evident, but I continued to call on her and, to tell the truth, she didn't exactly beg me to stay away.

"And it was about this time that Joyce began to get troublesome. I learned afterward from her that he had conceived a deep distrust of me, and, indeed, he had some grounds for suspicion. I was evidently a gentleman. That being so, what was I doing, working in a factory with my hands? I seemed to have plenty of money—I'm afraid I was careless once or twice about concealing my true income; where did I get it? And so on.

"So I saw something had to be done and I did it with a promptitude rather foreign to my nature. I quit the shop; then, in order to keep up the illusion with them both—especially for his sake, for I foresaw that he might take to trailing me some more—I went over to Manhattan and got work in a similar factory on the upper East Side. I gave up my hall-bedroom, too, and took a rather cheap apartment not far from my place of business. I furnished it well however, for I'd gotten rather tired, as you can guess, of furniture such as generally obtains in hall-bedrooms.

"Well, things remained in statu quo for some time after I left Long Island City. Then she broke off her engagement with Joyce. Honest and true, Jack, I had nothing to do with it—of course, I mean, directly.

"I said earlier in this long-winded epistle that I was no longer working in factories. I'm not. Three months ago I was painfully scalded in an accident in the East Side factory, and I was laid up in Bellevue for two weeks—of course, under my nom de Cupid of Greening. She came to see me there regularly, and I think the greatest joy I have known was to have her sit by my bedside holding my hand, or wiping my forehead with her handkerchief.

When a medicine must be given to young children it should be pleasant to take. NO NEGROES TO BROWNSVILLE.

Washington April 6—It is not the present intention of the administration to arouse ay race prejudice in the Brownsville district of Texas by ordering negro troops to that city. It was said today at the white house that the Ninth cavalry, a negro regiment, will not be ordered from San Antonio to Brownsville as was reported, but will be sent to New Mexico and parts of Texas far away from the city in which the Twenty-fifth regiment of colored infantry created the famous disturbance of five years ago. Messages protesting against the quartering of the negro troops in small towns along the border were received today from border town residents by Representative John M. Garner, of Texas.

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

Late estimates on the percentage of recoveries under the new emollient treatment for Bright's Disease are as follows:

Where patient is much weakened and crises may be expected in from five to ten days, probably not more than 10% to 20% recover. Where physicians aid with efforts to restrain fatal symptoms this percentage is increased. In cases where patients have from thirty to sixty days of life the efficiency is very much higher.

Where patients do not wait until bedridden probably three-fourths yield.

And in cases that take the new emollient treatment on the appearance of the disease nearly nine out of ten respond.

Albumen Casts and dropsy do not prevent recovery. The point is that the Renal inflammation should be attacked before the heart and physical system are broken down.

The new emollient treatment is known as Fulton's Renal Compound. It can be had in Fort Wayne at the D. & N. Pharmacy, 624 Calhoun St.

We desire every patient to write us who is not noting the usual improvement by the third week. Literature mailed free. Jno. J. Fulton Co., 645 Battery St., San Francisco, Cal. We invite correspondence with physicians who have obstinate cases.

DRINK BOOZE FROM TINCUP.

Linton, Ind., April 6.—With rough boards placed across the barrels for bars, floating down which big tin cups took the place of "schooners" the opening of the thirteen saloons of Linton reminded the old timer of the early mining camp days when the thirsty did not stand on formality. Twenty-seven applied for licenses and no one knew who would be successful so no preparations were made until the licenses were granted. Then there was a wild scramble of the successful licensees to get the saloon opened first and get the "jump" on the business.

"SPECIAL INTERESTS."

There are persons who contend that "special interests" is a vague and indeed a demagogic term, and incapable of definition. Undoubtedly it is difficult in certain cases to draw the line sharply between corporations which conduct themselves with entire propriety and other corporations which distinctly come in the category of the special interests, of the beneficiaries of special privileges. But such difficulties of demarcation on the border line always exist. Practically there is little difficulty in saying whether or not the average big concern is the beneficiary of special privilege. A special interest is one which has been given by law certain improper advantages as compared with the mass of our people, or which enjoys such advantages owing to the absence of needed laws. As regards certain great corporations, the facts are patent—being often made so by confession or judicial proceeding—that no discussion of them is necessary. When the sugar trust, for instance, through its chief officer, testified that it subscribed to the campaign funds of both parties in order to protect itself from government interference, the officer added with cynical candor that it was republican in republican states and democratic in democratic states, it becomes easy to understand why its management should have been of such a character as to result in its having to return to the government between two and three millions of dollars of which it had swindled the government by debauching custom-house employes—and this aside from the fines it paid for illegally securing railway rebates.—Theodore Roosevelt.

THE SHOP AND RAIL NEWS

ARE GOING HOME WITH THE CASH

Hungarian Laborers Leave to Join Families in Old Country.

TWENTY-SIX MEN WITH OVER $25,000

Were Employed in Fort Wayne Shops—Shop and Rail News.

Twenty-six Hungarians who had been employed in Fort Wayne a year or more left yesterday for their native country, where most of them have wives and children. These men are thrifty and each took a sum of money with him, the aggregate being estimated at upwards of $25,000. One man who had worked at the Pennsylvania round house fourteen months had over $1,100. Of this sum $600 was saved out of his earnings at the round house and the balance was the savings while employed at the Bass foundry. His case is not an exception, the experiences of the others being about the same. This party of foreigners will return here with a number of their relatives and friends when labor in America resumes normal conditions.

HAVE TENTATIVE PLAN.

Hope to Save Money on Track Elevation at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, April 7.—A tentative preliminary plan to save the railroad companies here several hundred thousand dollars in the elevation of tracks in the downtown district has been presented to City Engineer Klausman by the engineers of some of the companies affected.

The city has ordered the elevation of all the downtown tracks. Under the Indianapolis law the railroads are compelled to bear 75 per cent of the cost. The Big Four, Pennsylvania, Monon, C., H. & D., Vandalia, Lake Erie and Western and the Indianapolis Union Railway were included in the city's plans for elevation of tracks.

The new idea presented by the railroads is for practically all the lines to use the same track coming into the Union station. One preliminary map provides for the building of a short line from Castleton to Beech Grove, so that Lake Erie and Western and two divisions of the Big Four could come into the city over the Cincinnati division of the Big Four.

Another map shows a proposed short line leading from the Monon, near Broad Ripple, to New Augusta, where a connection would be made with the Chicago division of the Big Four. This would enable the Big Four and Monon to use one track coming in on their Chicago division. The line from Castleton would enable the Lake Erie and Western, two divisions of the Big Four, the C., H. & D. and the Richmond division of the Pennsylvania to detour and come in by Beech Grove.

46 YEARS WITH COMPANY.

Forty-six years ago today Alf. Raifsnyder landed in Fort Wayne and two days later became a chainman with a surveying company engaged in getting the material for a map of the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago road. While thus engaged, Mr. Raifsnyder walked every foot of the way from Harding county, in the central part of Ohio, to Chicago, a feat he believes no man now living can boast of. Mr. Raifsnyder has been in the service of the company ever since and is at present a watchman in the shop.

ALL STEEL TRAINS.

Pennsylvania Adds Two to the Equipment

Pennsylvania train No. 8, which passed through this city at 7:40 o'clock last night, was an all steel train and its companion, No. 9, which will pass through the city at 4:10 o'clock this afternoon, will be similarly made up. The cars in these trains were formerly all steel construction except the three coaches, and because of the rule which permits no wooden cars to pass through the tunnel at New York, these wooden coaches were exchanged for steel ones at Pittsburg. Now these trains will make the entire trip as made up at the terminal from which they start. The steel coaches will be a smoker, a ladies' car and a gentlemen's car. No. 8, eastbound, carries a Washington, Pittsburg and a New York sleeping car, each of which makes the run to the cities named without change and the same equipment comes west on No. 9.

FINISH NEXT WEEK.

Union Signal Company Closing Up Big Contract.

Next week, when the Union Switch and Signal company brings the Pennsylvania's automatic signal system down from Adams station to the Hanna street station, it will have completed the contract of installing a signal system on the Fort Wayne branch as far as it is possible to carry the work until the completion of track elevation in the city. Today the stretch of automatic signal system not previously put in service between the G. R. & I. junction, just west of the St. Mary's river, was turned over to the company for operation, completing the system from the junction to Chicago. The work between Fort Wayne and Adams is very nearly finished and will be put in service about next Tuesday. Then the men engaged in the installation of the system will be transferred to another field, to be brought back here possibly next fall.

FIX WAGE SCALE.

A permanent wage scale has been adopted by the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners No. 232 for the first time in the history of the organization this feature of the local having previously been considered as more or less of a personal matter. The new scale adopted last night places the minimum wage of a carpenter at 40 cents an hour and a special committee was appointed to meet an confer with the contractors of the city. The scale will go into effect the first of June.

HAVE TO PUT MEAT IN SAUSAGE

(Philadelphia North American.)

If a bill which has passed both branches of the legislature is signed by the governor, sausage will have to be sausage in this state hereafter. That is to say sausage must be chopped meat of some kind, properly seasoned of course, but not mixed with other substances.

The bill is aimed specifically at the use of cereals in sausage and was introduced at the instance of the state dairy and food department. The United States government permits the use of 5 per cent. of cereals in sausage meat if the mixture is declared. It is contended that while declarations are usually made in case lots, the consumer gets no notice.

This proportion of cereal will take up 20 per cent. of moisture, adding this much to the weight of the sausage, and, of course, placing a corresponding loss upon the consumer. The Pork Packers' association of this city began the crusade against the use of cereals in sausage about three years ago. It filed complaints some time ago with Harry Cassidy, special agent of the state dairy and food department. Cassidy broke up the practice at that time. Since then the practice has grown in other parts of the state.

REMBRANDT'S HOUSE RESTORED.

Paintings of the Dutch Artist Will Replace His Great Collection.

(The Mundus.)

Within a short time Amsterdam will possess a new attraction to lovers of art. The house were Rembrandt lived from 1639 to 1658, and where he passed the most happy years of his married life with Sashia van Uilenburg, is being restored and arranged as a small Rembrandt museum. The historical building, long much neglected, became the property some time ago of a society and is now being restored under the direction of a famous architect.

Rembrandt had a great passion for collecting, and the house at Amsterdam during his life contained innumerable treasures; the walls were covered with pictures by Carracci, Raphael, Michelangelo, Novellara, Brouwer, Hals, Lievens, Porcellis. There were a great number of curious arms, prints by Lucas Mantegna, Raphael, Michelangelo, Tempesta, Titian, Durer, Holbein, Van Dyck, Rubens, Morevelt and Callot, an almost complete collection. One would have gladly seen the house restored as it was when Rembrandt inhabited it, but that could not be, as it was quite impossible to obtain again all the works of art which it once contained, and thus it is now arranged as a small museum, where chiefly etchings and drawings, about seventy in all, by the great painter will be on view.

The governor general of Netherlands, India, estimates the next crop of Java coffee at 4,132,000 pounds.

A HIGHER MARK FOR POTATOES

At Retail They Are Selling Here at 75c Per Bushel.

CHICKENS SCARCE

Notwithstanding the jump in prices for potatoes, as announced Thursday in The Sentinel, the receipts continued to be comparatively light today, unequal to the demand, and prices had a tendency toward a higher mark. On the retail street market they were selling at 50@70c a bushel, and the retail price per bushel is 75c. In reference to prices, Mr. McKay, of the wholesale firm of G. E. Bursley & Co., says:

"We are unable to supply the demand from retailers at 60c a bushel and know that the jobbing demand warrants a price of 65c and a retail price of 75c per bushel for potatoes at this time."

It is asserted that there are plenty of potatoes around through the country, but the low prices that have prevailed have prevented them from being brought into the market. It is also said that the increase in price will have the effect of causing the farmers "to loosen up" and that the present scarcity in the market will not long continue.

Chickens remain scarce and high. Butter and eggs continue at prices that have prevailed all the week. Hay is $14.00@18.00. Hay is coming in the city in large quantities. Twenty-eight loads arrived Thursday and up to noon today seventeen loads passed over the city scales. Yesterday seven loads of corn and eleven loads of oats came into the city.

THE MARKETS

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, Ill., April 7.—Signs that world shipments will reach a large total this week had a depressing effect today on the price of wheat. Forwardings were especially heavy from Australia and Argentine. In addition, European crop conditions showed improvement. The fact that demand from shorts had been satisfied here tended also to increase the general sentiment favorable to the bear side of the market. Opening figures were ½c to ⅝c down. May started at 85¼c to 85¾c, a decline of ¼@⅝c to ⅝@½c, dropped to 84⅞@85c, and rallied to 85⅜@85½c.

Better weather for the movement of corn gave that cereal an easy tone. Commission houses were sellers. May opened ¼c to ⅛c off at 47½c to 47⅝c, and seemed bent on keeping within that limit.

Oats suffered a little from the bear movement in other grain. Trade was slow. May started a shade to ⅛c lower at 30⅛c to 30¼c, and failed to display much power to recover.

In the provision pit business appeared to be evenly divided and prices about steady. First sales were 2½c to 5c cheaper to a shade up with May options at $15.00 for pork, $7.95 for lard and $8.45 for ribs.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

The Day on Wall Street.

New York, April 7.—The only feature of the stock market at the opening today was a rise in Canadian Pacific of over a point, following a gain of a similar amount in London. The rest of the list was virtually unchanged from yesterday's closing figures.

A half dozen of the minor industrials responded to trading operations in a moderate fashion, but the great mass of stocks were inert. United States Rubber and the Pittsburg Coal stocks advanced 1 to 1¼ and American Can preferred and Colorado Fuel large fractions. American Steel Foundries and National Biscuit lost 2 points.

Speculative interest in the stock market dwindled steadily until there were prolonged intervals when the ticker did not even register a sale. None of the favorite stocks varied more than ¼ from their initial prices, and the obscure specialties furnished the only medium for scalping profits. There was an active and higher market for bonds, with some large operations in Virginia deferred certificates.

Seaboard Air Line adjustments and Southern Railway 4s, Virginia certificates jumped 4 points to 63½. Associated Oil gained 2 points.

The report of the Copper Producers' association for March, which showed an increase on hand of 6,370,164 pounds, caused some scattered liquidation in Amalgamated Copper, which went down nearly a point. The rest of the active list was unaltered from the midday level. Seaboard Air Line adjustment 4s continued to be heavily bought and touched 78¾, a gain of 2¾. Wabash Terminal certificates were liquidated freely meanwhile and fell 1½.

Stock prices receded slightly in midafternoon. Erie and Missouri Pacific went off a considerable fraction. The usual market leaders held at about last night's close.

The market closed heavy. Missouri Pacific broke badly in the last hour, selling down 2 points to 49, which is lower than it has been for nearly three months. The decline was attributed to the failure of recent bull rumors to materialize and to the bad effect produced by the unrestrained liquidation of Wabash-Pittsburg Terminal certificates, which yielded 3 points. Other stocks went off a trifle in sympathy. American Steel Foundries sagged 4¼.
